Drag Reservoir for Body of Lucas Man

SON BELIEVES DAD DROWNED WHILE FISHING

Deputies Man Boats in Hunt For Body of Arthur Watson at Pleasant Hill.

FIND COAT, FISH POLE

Youth Fails to Find Father on Return to Fishing Spot and Organizes Hunt.

Richland county deputy sheriffs and men from the Perrysville community today continued dragging Pleasant Hill reservoir for the body of Arthur W. Watson, 54-year-old farmer, who disappeared Saturday night after going to the reservoir to fish.

Watson's raincoat and fishing pole were found floating on the lake Sunday, leading relatives of the missing man to believe he slipped into the lake and was drowned.

Deputy Sheriff John Whitcomb and volunteer workers started searching the waters early yesterday and continued until about 2 a. m. today. The lake is more than 30 feet deep and there is a strong undercurrent at the spot where Watson was fishing, Whitcomb said.

Watson was last seen by his son, Harold, 15, who drove him to the lake about 5:30 p. m. Saturday. The son told authorities he left his father fishing from a steep bank near the St. John's cemetery and promised to return for him early Sunday morning.

When he went back Sunday morning his father was gone, the son said. He summoned fishermen at the lake and they found the raincoat and fishing pole in the water.

Young Watson told authorities he was certain his father had drowned accidentally for he had no reason to take his

Jap Carrier Afire After Bombing By U. S. Planes

This remarkable photograph of the burning Jap aircraft carrier Ryukaku was taken from a U. S. plane just as the torpedo from another plane exploded against its side. Badly damaged, she tried to flee, but U. S. bombers pursued her and continued to drop their deadly missiles until, completely out of control, this pride of the Jap navy slid under the churning waters around her to the bottom.

LEND-LEASE AID TOPS 4 BILLION

Roosevelt Tells Congress Battle of Production Being Won.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt informed congress today that lend-lease aid up to the end of May totalled $4,497,000,000 and that while the battle of production was on the way to being won, the battle of distribution was "in its critical phase."

"Our reservoir of resources is now aproaching flood stage," he said. "The next step is for our military, industrial, and shipping experts to direct its full force against the centers of enemy power.

"Great Britain and the United States . . . are taking combined action to carry our men and weapons—on anything that will float or fly—to the places from which we can launch our offensives."

The president summed up for congress the results of 15 months

PASSES SENATE

Family Aid Bill, Deferment of Husbands Goes to House.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate approved and sent to the house today a military pay allotment bill requiring draft boards to consider family relationships in calling men for duty with the armed forces.

Under the basic section of measure, the government would help the four lowest ranks of soldiers, sailors, marines and coast guardsmen support their dependents. Deductions taken from the men's pay would be supplemented by federal allowances.

The second section of the bill revises the selective service act by requiring local draft boards to first exhaust supplies of single men, or those without bona fide family ties, before calling up husbands and fathers.

Scrap Rubber Drive Rushes Gas Stations

Mansfield Operators Busy As Steady Stream of Contributors Bring In Salvage For 'One Cent Sale'.

Filling stations in Mansfield were doing a rushing business today as they and the rest of the nation's 400,000 service stations put on a glorified "one cent sale" to round up all available scrap rubber in the country.

Station operators, accustomed to being the seller instead of the purchaser, had their hands full. All of them tried to borrow scales, and most of them were successful. Models ranging from shiny new bathroom scales to the antiquated balancing type used in markets were pressed into service.

The items turned in covered a wide range—from worn out tires and tubes to rubber baby pants and teething rings, rubber fly swatters and reducing corsets, stair treads and golf balls, rubber bands and overshoes.

A survey today indicated that residents of Mansfield were cooperating fully in the scrap rubber drive. Aside from the fact the drive is a contribution to the war effort, there was the added incentive that the results of this campaign may decide whether nationwide gasoline rationing will be ordered to save rubber.

Some of the folks who brought in scrap rubber articles accepted the "penny a pound" which the station men were ready to pay them, but others just tossed the scrap into the containers at the stations and drove away.

There was some confusion among Mansfield station men

TOTAL DEATHS

Census Bureau Report 2,119 Killed In Ohio Traffic In 1940.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohio's 1940 auto toll was placed by the census bureau at Washington at 2119 deaths, or more than a third of the 5952 accidental fatalities from all causes, state officials were informed. There were 5,485 accidental deaths in Ohio in 1939.

Only California, New York and Pennsylvania had more accidental deaths than Ohio in 1940, although 13 states had larger rates than Ohio's 86.2 per 100,000 population.

BASS, BEWARE!

Fishermen Unlimber Tackle; Season Opens Tonight.

Hundreds of Mansfield and Richland county fishermen polished their fishing tackle and replaced worn lines today in preparation for the opening of the bass season at midnight tonight.

Recent heavy rains have made the rivers and creeks muddy in the Richland county area, spoiling the chances for good catches for the next few days. Bass fishing is expected to be better, however, in the lakes which are less affected by heavy rainfall. The season won't open on Lake Erie until July 1.

It is legal to keep only bass 10 inches or more in length. The creel limit is six. All fishermen over 18 must have fishing licenses.

MESSAGES ARE PREPARED EARLY

War Department Drafts 'Canned' Holiday Greetings for A. E. F.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war department expects the current unpleasantness to continue beyond Christmas at least, judging from a list of "canned" messages which it has composed for communication between members of the American expeditionary forces and the folks back home.

Message No. 53 on the list, which is being distributed to commercial telegraph and cable companies, says:

"Happy Christmas and New Year."

The department has devised 102 fixed telegrams to cover almost any ordinary situation thus far, and is working on about 30 more to meet some of the more unusual ones.

HUNT NAZIS

Michigan Authorities Seek Pair Who Fled Canadian Camp.

DETROIT—(INS)—Federal, state and local police today joined in a search throughout the vital industrial areas of Michigan for two German prisoners of war who escaped from an Ontario internment camp.

The pair of fugitives, as described by provincial authorities, were Eric Schmidt, 22-year-old Nazi sailor, and Luftwaffe Pilot Martin Maennich, 25. Neither is said to speak English well.

WEEKLEY FILES SLANDER SUIT

Butler School Row Figure Names Physician, Farmer In $10,000 Actions.

Fighting back at his accusers in the Butler school row, Supt. Willard S. Weekley today filed two $10,000 slander suits in Richland county common pleas court, naming Dr. John A. Reed, Butler physician, and Norman L. Stukey, Worthington township farmer, as the defendants.

The superintendent, who has been the central figure in a long dispute which resulted in a school strike at Butler early in February, charges that Dr. Reed and Stukey circulated "false, malicious, and defamatory words" against him and that he has "been greatly injured in his reputation."

Supt. Weekley, in his petitions, quotes statements he attributes to Dr. Reed and Stukey in which they allegedly accused him of having a venereal disease or tuberculosis.

In the action against Dr. Reed, he alleges that the statements were made last Oct. 25, 27, and 29 in the presence of Hazel DeWitt Wright, in the homes of Mildred Morgan and Richard M. Stone, and in a Butler grocery in the presence of J. Hallie Taylor.

Supt. Weekley accuses Stukey of making defamatory statements last Sept. 17 in the home of Raymond and Archie Stevens in Worthingtown township.

By a vote of three to one, the Butler board of education two weeks ago passed a resolution to discharge Weekley.

Doctors, Dentists Here Today For Army Board Talks

Doctors and dentists from eight counties in the north central Ohio area appeared today at Mansfield General hospital, where an army medical officer recruiting board began interviewing applicants for commissions in the army medical and dental corps.

Major H. S. Perry, officer in charge of the board, said the group would remain in session until 6 or 7 p. m. today to take care of all applicants. A number of physicians from Mansfield were present when the interviews started, and others were on hand from Ashland, Wooster, Lorain, and other cities in this area.

Ten physicians and four dentists from Mansfield already are in uniform, and today's visit by army recruiting board was expected to swell that total considerably.

The board will return to Mans-

FOOD RIOTING BREAKS OUT IN GERMANY

25 Reported Killed, Hundreds Arrested as Gestapo Tries To Stamp Out Unrest.

STRIFE HITS HAMBURG

Policemen Killed in Nazis' Chief Seaport Where 1918 Collapse Started.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Hamburg, Germany's greatest port, where the disintegration of the German home front began in the last year of the World war, has been the scene of bloody food rioting, apparently authentic reports reaching Stockholm and other neutral cities, said today.

The reports said that 25 Germans had been executed and hundreds had been arrested as the Gestapo moved in to stamp out unrest at any cost. Seven policemen were killed and several were wounded by rioting civilians armed with revolvers, the reports said.

Hamburg has been long known as the major German city with little sympathy for the Nazi cause. In Hamburg, the sailors of the Kaiser's fleet mutinied against their officers in 1918 which started the events that led to the collapse of German home front and the armistice.

It is the chief German port, the city which has suffered most from the cessation of world trade that came with the war and has been pounded most severely by the Royal Air Force.

The strongest opposition to the Nazis centered in Hamburg in the days when Hitler was slugging and bullying his way to power with the backing of some German industrialists. Powerful workers' organizations, many of them led by Communists, engaged in frequent clashes with the Nazis at public meetings and in street

TWO CAPTURED

O. S. R. Fugitives Apprehended In Car Stolen at Park.

Two Ohio State reformatory inmates were in custody of Mt. Vernon police today after a brief period of liberty following their escape from the horse barn at the institution Sunday afternoon and the theft of a car from a nearby park.

The two men—August Audeneart, 19, and Herman Ingram, 20, made their getaway at 3 p. m. Sunday. Their absence was noticed an hour later, but searching officers failed to locate them.

At 11:30 last night, they stole an automobile belonging to Carl Kauffman, Loudonville, R. D. 2, which was parked at G. B. U. park, three miles north of the reformatory, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson reported. Several hours later Mt. Vernon police saw the pair sitting in the stolen car and took them into custody.

Audeneart was admitted to the reformatory from Henry county in December, 1939, to serve one-to-age as a juvenile delinquent and for burglary. Ingram was admitted from Warren county in March, 1940, to serve one to 20 years for auto stealing.

Axis Reports Ships, Planes In Heavy Fight

Italians Claim Seven Allied Ships In Two Big Convoys Sunk; Dispatches Hint Attack On Mainland Or Troop Movement To Suez.

(By Associated Press)

A great running sea-air battle, which on the face of Axis reports—the only information available thus far—seems to have stemmed from a major strategical move of the Allies, was being fought today at Italy's Mediterranean doorstep between the Italian islands of Sardinia and Sicily.

The location of the battle, the strength and composition given by Rome for the Allied naval force and the reckless expenditure of planes in the attack on it suggested either that Italian territory itself might be under attack or that the Allies were engaged in a great transfer of strength between Gibraltar and Suez.

The Italian high command, in a special communique, claimed that two cruisers, one destroyer and four steamers were sunk out of one of two British convoys, and a battleship, an aircraft carrier, two cruisers, one destroyer and four steamers heavily damaged.

The Italians said the convoy attacked was protected by "numerous units of the line and by two aircraft carriers." Spotting the convoy early Saturday, Italians said their scout planes later lost sight of it and the first attack was not delivered until Sunday.

"Numerous formations" of torpedo planes, bombers and fighters then struck the flotilla, the Italians related. They acknowledged 20 planes lost themselves and reported shooting 15 carrier-borne planes down in flames.

"The operations were resumed in the early hours of this morning against the remaining units," the communique concluded.

Naval warfare broke out meanwhile in the Black sea where the Red fleet, thundering into action to bolster Sevastopol against land assault, laid a curtain of shellfire on the encroaching Crimean line of the Germans.

With dwindling time in which to start a grand offensive before they are smitten aflank or at the rear on a second European front, the Germans are threshing at the ramparts of Sevastopol while the remainder of the vast German-Russian front shows signs of an imminent general flareup.

Despite a spendthrift use of fighting men, which in some sectors outweighed the Red army and civilian defenders five and six to one, Adolf Hitler still had only the hasty graves of his dead to show for his all-out effort against Sevastopol.

The Crimean port and base or Russia's Black sea fleet still flew the hammer and sickle though no one could say how long the hard-pressed defenders could hold out. The violence of the fight mounted by the hour.

The German high command said several fortified positions on the southern side of Sevastopol's broad belt of defenses had been captured by storming German infantrymen, while 16 defending planes were shot down yesterday by German bombers and fighters over the Sevastopol fortress area.

East of Kharkov, where the

PLEDGE: Philippines, Mexico Join Ranks Of United Nations

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The United Nations today numbered 28 with the newest members—Mexico and the Philippine commonwealth—pledged to a finish fight against the Axis.

President Roosevelt welcomed the two new signatories yesterday—Flag day—at a White House ceremony in which he told how the united foes of the Axis "have the power and the men and the will at last to assure man's heritage."

Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najera signed the declaration for Mexico, and President Manuel Quezon signed for the Philippines. The ceremony was attended by representatives of the 26 original United Nations.

As Najera and Quezon signed, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that "there's plenty of room for more signatures later on."

Najera and Quezon added the first two nations to join the original group of 26 since the declaration was drafted and signed Jan. 1 while British Prime Minister Winston Churchill was in this country.

Mr. Roosevelt, in an address which was rebroadcast to the world, reviewed the "four freedoms" for which the United Nations are fighting and prayed for "a planet invexed by war, untroubled by hunger and fear, undivided by senseless distinction of race, color or theory."

"The four freedoms of common humanity," he said, "are as much elements of man's needs as air

FOILED: Japs Beaten Off In Attempt At Heavy Darwin Raid

BULLETIN

DARWIN, Australia—(U.P.)—A force of 27 Japanese bombers, protected by fighter planes, subjected the Port Darwin area to its heaviest aerial bombardment today, dropping about 200 bombs as Allied planes battled the raiders at high altitude.

(By United Press)

MELBOURNE—Allied fighter planes, American and Australian, frustrated Japan's most ambitious attempt so far to cripple Darwin, the great north Australian base, it was understood today.

Between 18 and 25 enemy Zero fighter planes, leading the way for a major bombing plane fleet, were intercepted off the coast and beaten so convincingly that the bomber fleet never appeared over the coast.

Four of the enemy planes at least were downed and the remainder consumed so much gasoline in wild fighting which lasted for more than an hour, that it seemed improbable many of them reached their base.

One Allied plane alone was downed. Its pilot was saved.

It was the second major enemy raid on Darwin in two days.

In the first, on Saturday, after a lull of seven weeks, the Japanese used a fleet of 27 heavy bombers, escorted by 12 to 15 fighters, to attack the airdrome.

The strength of the fighter fleet they used yesterday indicated that upwards of 35 bombing planes were waiting to take advantage of any break in the defense line, but their chance never came.

Possibly indicating the formation of a new enemy invasion fleet

Special Council Session Set To Study 'Sidetracked' Bills

Eight pieces of legislation sponsored by Councilman George C. Kyle, Republican, side-tracked last Friday night when other Republican members of city council balked at what they called "jamming legislation down their throats," will be considered by council tomorrow night in its third meeting since the first of the month.

R. R. Black, clerk of council, said today he had been asked by the mayor to call a second special meeting for "general business."

Councilman Kyle, who received the brunt of the attack by fellow Republicans when he attempted to introduce several pieces of legislation Friday, said that the meeting had been called to dispose of the legislation held up at the Friday meeting.

Councilmen Roy W. Vaughn and C. N. Shultz led other Republicans in frustrating Kyle's plans to put through several pieces of emergency legislation Friday. Both councilmen told Kyle that they had no intention of voting on matters "with only five minutes to think them over."

Kyle said he would introduce the following legislation at tonight's meeting: the appropriation of $7,000 for the purchase of a street sweeper, the authority to proceed with the resurfacing of Glessner avenue, the vacating of Green street, between Mendota and Ohio streets and the changing of the name of the remainder of Green street to Ohio street, the improvement of Lida street between Raymond and Longview avenues, the vacating of an alley on Grant street, a resolution naming streets to be oiled, and the appropriation of $650 to erect a wire fence around the Hedges street pumping station.

Emperor's Medals Returned To Tokyo Via American Bomb

NEW YORK—(AP)—Thirty-four years ago the U. S. battle fleet visited Japan and two sailors on the U. S. S. Connecticut—Master Rigger Henry Vormstein of Lakeview, N. Y., and Shipwright John B. Laurey of Brooklyn—received medals from the emperor of Japan.

Early this year Vormstein and Laurey sent the medals to Navy Secretary Knox asking that they be returned to Tokyo—attached to a bomb.

Today the Third naval district released an official letter to Master Rigger Vormstein, now working at the Brooklyn Navy yard. It said:

"Through the courtesy of the war department your Japanese medal and a similar medal turned in for shipment by Shipwright John B. Laurey were returned to his royal highness the emperor of Japan on 18 April, 1942.

"I am informed by the secretary of war that the medals, attached to a 500-pound bomb, were delivered at Tokyo on 18 April 1942 by Lieut. Ted W. Lawson, U. S. army, with appropriate ceremony. (Signed) Frank Knox."

Laurey is now at Pearl Harbor, having volunteered on the first call for civilian workers to repair damage done by the Japanese.

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The Russian lines held staunchly through a bloody week-end—and that's the vital news of the hour.

There can be no doubt that Hitler is straining every nerve to get his heavily delayed offensive under way. But it won't roll until he can rip loose a portion of that magnificent Red line somewhere.

Particularly violent fighting continued on the Kharkov front in the Ukraine and before the long-besieged Soviet naval base of Sevastopol on the Crimea in the Black sea. These operations represent a Nazi effort to crack the gateway into the Caucasus, thereby creating a funnel through which the Nazi chief could pour his waiting legions.

The Germans, employing the tactics which they made so well known in the first World war, have been trying to breach the Red defenses by weight of numbers. It's a method of attack which frequently succeeds—if you don't care how many lives you sacrifice. However, Marshal Timoshenko's Bolshevists at latest reports were standing them off and inflicting heavy losses. That the defenders also were suffering many casualties seemed a foregone conclusion.

Further evidence that the fuehrer is trying to get his "spring" blitzkrieg going is seen in the boiling up of fierce local attacks throughout the length of the attenuated Russo-German line. One of the most important of these assaults continues against the Arctic port of Murmansk, the railhead through which vital American and British military supplies are being poured into Russia. The Nazi object, of course, is to cut this lifeline.

Watch Murmansk, if you would keep well informed on the progress of the war, since preservation of this route is essential, and its loss would be a real catastrophe. Don't forget that this is a war of resources. Production and transportation must be maintained at top pitch.

Murmansk, is some degree like the Burma road, is one of the Allied key positions right now.

PORTLAND, Me.—(INS)—Maine, ordinarily the nation's political barometer, turned out unenthusiastically at the polls today in the primary election of major state and national office nominations.

Except for contests in the first congressional district, where the Republican race involves a national issue, few candidates bothered yesterday to put finishing touches to one of the dullest pre-primary campaigns in years.

MYSTERY DEATH FOLLOWS WRECK OF TWO TRAINS

Official Found With Bullet Wound in Mouth After Crash Kills Eight.

(By International News Service)

HENDERSON, N. C.—Mystery surrounding the death of a railroad official today hung over the investigation of the crash of a freight train into the Seaboard railroad's proud streamliner, Silver Meteor, on which eight passengers were killed and several were injured.

About 1 a. m. yesterday, the freight rammed into the rear observation car of the streamliner at Kittrell, a small village seven miles south of Henderson, where the New York-Miami passenger express had stopped for a train order.

At Raleigh, 35 miles from the scene, the body of H. M. Terrell, 56, a division superintendent of the line, was found in the division yard. Police said he died of a bullet wound in the mouth, apparently inflicted about three hours after the crash. A pistol lay near the body.

Road officials and police withheld comment as to whether a connection existed between the crash and the shooting.

Damage to the streamliner largely was confined to the last car, which was telescoped by the freight engine. Some passengers seeing the freight loom up out of the darkness and realizing it was on their track, escaped to the next car.

But five were killed, either by the crash or escaping steam from the locomotive which plowed halfway through the car, and three others died later at Henderson hospital.

The dead were listed as: Thomas E. Carley, jr., Rutherford, N. J.; Paul Kishman of Brooklyn, a soldier; John Service, Rutherford, N. J., a soldier; Walter R. Rau, 46, Baltimore, Md.; Miss Edna Warneck, Baltimore; John V. Sullivan, Fairview, Mass.; Ruth Schuler, Long Island, N. Y.; Barbara Uzmann, Long Island, N. Y.

Chief Issues Appeal For 75 Volunteer Fire Fighters.

Seventy-five Mansfield men have already entered training as auxiliary firemen in the civilian defense program but Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger, director of auxiliary firefighting, today urged an additional 75 to sign up for the courses.

The fire chief requested any men above the age of 18 to apply for entrance into the courses either at the first aid sessions held at regular Mansfield fire stations on Tuesday night or the firemanship courses given Friday nights.

Cards inviting enlistment in the emergency firefighting corps have been sent out to 200 Mansfielders.

NELSON HAILS WAR PRODUCTION

Declares Nation 'Over the Hump'; Warns of Hardships Ahead.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—War Production Director Donald M. Nelson believes that the nation is "over the hump" in production but that it has just begun to suffer the hardships it must endure to win the war.

Addressing a MacArthur day crowd of 100,000 in Soldiers Field yesterday, Nelson praised the nation's industries for their rapid conversion to war production but warned the public it faced great upsets in its daily life and that many small business firms faced failure.

"We can honestly say," Nelson said, "that as far as production itself is concerned, we are over the hump. But as for the inconveniences, discomforts and hardships that you and I will have to endure—why, we haven't even got to the foothills yet."

SPLIT IN SCRAP OVER CCC FUNDS

Senate Committee Divided Into 2 Camps; Majority Favor NYA Continuance.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A determined fight to abolish the civilian conservation corps was reported today to have split the senate appropriations committee into two equally strong camps, although a majority of members apparently favored continuance of another New Deal Relief agency, the National Youth administration.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) led a move to scuttle both organizations as the committee sped consideration of several appropriations bills expected to occupy most of congress' attention for the rest of the month.

McKellar told reporters he would fight to uphold house action striking out a $75,818,000 appropriation for the CCC. The house voted a total of $54,729,000 for the NYA, which McKellar also seeks to abolish on the ground that it no longer is needed.

On the other hand, the Tennessee senator said he favored continuation of the works progress administration, alloted $336,000,000 by the house in a separate bill, although possibly with a reduced appropriation.

Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis.) not a member of the group, served notice that he would take the fight to the senate itself if the committee failed to approve appropriations for both organizations equal to the budget estimates.

Awaiting action on these measures, the senate arranged today to hear an address by King George of Greece and to act later on a joint conference committee's compromise of legislation providing allowances for the dependents of men drafted into the armed services.

The house had only minor business before it while its ways and means committee continued putting the finishing touches on a new revenue bill.

REOPEN MINE SEALED IN '01

PORT ROYAL, Pa.—(U.P.)—On the night of June 10, 1901, two black-damp explosions rocked a coal tipple across the Youghiogeny river from Fitz Henry and brought death to 18 miners.

Today, workmen are exploring the old diggings, removing tools and lunch pails which were dropped by the men when the blasts occurred and preparing to reopen the pits after 41 years of idleness. A belated search for the body of John Peeples, of West Newton, even is under way; for it's believed his remains are in some unexplored part of the shaft.

The deserted mine is being reopened because of the war emergency.

FREEDOM OF PRESS MUST BE PRESERVED KIWANIANS TOLD

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—The freedom of the press must be preserved and newspapers must be kept "in the healthiest condition possible under present economic strains" for the public good, Raymond B. Howard of London, president of the National Editorial association, said today at the Kiwanis international convention.

"The only attacks which need concern the people of this country who believe in the freedom of the press are those which come from embryonic dictators who sometimes work themselves into more or less important bureaucratic positions and use the cloak of their authority to try to mislead the public into underestimating the value of newspapers," Howard said.

He said that he was "highly pleased to see the recent recognition that is coming from those in high governmental positions in Washington of the power which advertising can wield in our war effort."

"It will mean a smoother, more efficient job and it will result in the improvement of the economic position of newspapers, which is necessary if they are to retain their full power as vehicles of communication and information," he said.

Howard asserted that voluntary censorship by the press "is working with a very marked degree of success during this war period."

He praised American newsgathering associations for their reporting of the war's progress.

"No where in the world will be found more unbiased, truthful reporting than that furnished by these American wire services," he said.

MEETS TONIGHT

Community Fund Board To Study War Chest Plan.

Plans for the organization of a war chest committee composed of representatives from various Mansfield and possibly other Richland county agencies and war relief organizations will be furthered by the Mansfield Community Fund executive board today at a special meeting at 4 p. m. at Fund headquarters.

A war chest for Mansfield that would roll all local drives for funds, exclusive of the Red Cross, into one major campaign became a certainty last week when the executive board of the Community Fund voted in favor of such a step as an all-around economy measure.

Preliminary plans call for a campaign in November. According to present estimates the Mansfield goal would not exceed $135,000. This amount is $3,000 less than the city contributed to war relief the past year and is exclusive of close to $25,000 raised by the Community Fund.

"I must demand the evacuation of all non-essential civilians!"

H. J. Ehrman, Orchard Park road, doesn't mind having someone pick his cherries for him, but he wants to know about it first and he would like to have a share of the fruit. He reported to Sheriff Frank E. Robinson today that all the cherries on the tree in his yard had been picked when he returned home last night from a visit, and he didn't think the robins were responsible.

In all of the 93 voting precincts in Mansfield and Richland county there will be only one central committee contest at the Aug. 11 primary when committeemen will be elected. With a Republican and Democrat to be chosen in each precinct, there could be 186 contests, two in each precinct. The lone contest is between Stanley J. Knapp, incumbent committeeman, and former police Chief William Lauer in Precinct H of the Sixth ward. They are Democrats. Only 32 Democrats filed for committee posts in the 93 precincts. There are Republican candidates in 82 precincts. Voters may write in names when none appear on the ballot.

Several city employes are becoming peeved with the forgetfulness of municipal building and Central park workers. It seems that the flag has not been flown on several occasions when holidays were being celebrated or a request had been made by some civic group. No flag flew over the municipal building over the week-end although Jeep day, MacArthur day and Flag day were observed. The flag is supposed to be flown from the flag pole in Central park every day but employes said that it had not been raised on several occasions.

STATISTICS SHOW MARKET COSTS DROP

Table Shows Butter Selling at 36 Cents Now, Sold for 69 Cents in World War I.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — The war inspired agricultural commodity price rise and the almost uninterrupted advance in wholesale food costs since before Pearl Harbor have definitely been halted, at least for the time being, market statistics showed today.

Although farm commodities are exempt from blanket ceilings placed on most processed food costs to consumers, market prices now have retreated from 1942 highs in the case of all major products.

They are still well above year ago levels, however, and experts said this fact, coupled with greatly increased wartime farm production, virtually assures agriculture of near record cash income this year.

Preliminary forecasts indicate marketings will yield farmers about $2,000,000,000 more than the $11,000,000,000 plus income they received in 1941. During the first quarter of 1942 cash farm income was 47 per cent greater than a year ago. Largest income on record was $14,600,000,000 in 1919; the smallest since then, less than $5,000,000,000 in 1932.

Price ceilings as of March highs, which went into effect last month on most food costs in retail and wholesale trade, directly or indirectly affect farm commodities to varying degrees, experts said. Some foods, however, such as eggs and poultry, milk products, flour, mutton and lamb, are exempt even in wholesale and retail trade.

Various developments other than price control have had important influence in causing certain commodities to back down from 1942 highs, which, in most cases, were tops for the past several years.

The following table of approximate Chicago prices, for comparative purposes only, reflects the agricultural price situation:

	Present	1942 High	Year Ago	World War I Peak
Wheat, bu.	$1.19	$1.35	$1.02	$3.50
Corn, bu.	.86	.93	.73	2.36

Butter, lb.	.36	.38¾	.34½	.69

Anxiety Ends As Family Hears Son Gets Hero Medal

GREENFIELD—(AP)—Weeks of anxiety over the welfare of their soldier son, Woodrow, were ended today for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ravenscraft, farmers residing six miles south of here.

They learned yesterday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had named the 28-year-old private for one of the first soldier's medal awards in the Southern Pacific battle area. It was the family's first word of Woodrow in weeks.

Medals were given Ravenscraft and First Lieut. Edward Hubbard of the medical corps, whose home is in Petersborough, N. H.

Their bravery was displayed March 22 when a flying boat transporting military personnel upset and began sinking as it landed in shark-infested waters at an Australian port. Hubbard smashed a window, crawled onto a wing, and then returned into the submerged place twice to rescue enlisted men.

Ravenscraft freed a fellow soldier pinned down by a machine gun. Then, out on the wing, Ravenscraft was dragged under water by another rescued soldier. He fought free and regained the wing together with the soldier.

SEA, AIR BATTLE RAGES CLOSE TO ITALIAN COAST

Axis Reports Tell of Ships, Planes Locked in Fight Among Islands.

Germans have been trying for positions from which to launch a grand offensive toward the Caucasus, a battle for rectification of the line was said by the Hitler command to have ended in the German favor.

The communique said that "remnants of the beaten enemy" had been destroyed and 25,000 Russian prisoners taken, along with destruction or capture of 226 tanks and 208 field guns.

If the Russians make their slogan stick—"not another step backward!" — Sevastopol will remain a thorn in the flank of the anticipated German drive toward the Caucasus which even now seemed to be taking its preliminary form in the Kharkov sector north of the Crimean peninsula.

There the Germans were attempting to exploit wedges driven into the lines recently rectified by a Russian offensive. These gains likewise cost the Germans heavily in machines and men—2,850 troops lost within the past two days, according to today's Moscow communique.

Bitter fighting at many scattered points on the rest of the front suggested that the whole battleline may be springing into new action.

The war with Russia, which Adolf Hitler said months ago was all over except for the mop-up, will be one year old next Monday.

In perimeter zones of the European conflict, the RAF reported sharp blows overnight against Hitler's air bases and communications.

An American volunteer with the RAF, Squadron Leader W. B. Cooper, of St. Petersburg, Fla., sank two out of three ships in an Axis convoy off the coast of Holland.

Norway and France appeared currently as the most active sectors of anti-Nazi violence within Hitler's new Europe.

Stockholm reported that many persons had been wounded in a battle between Quislingists and other Norwegians near Trondheim where the Norwegian Nazis entered the towns of Rissa and Selbu to "take reprisals."

Another Stockholm dispatch said that Vidkun Quisling, premier of the German puppet government, was meeting with his ministers and pro-Nazi party leaders at Oslo to study the political situation in all parts of Norway.

The Paris city hall was shaken yesterday by a small bomb planted in an underground passage but only the German radio reported casualties — injury to two persons.

Diplomatic quarters in Switzerland reported meanwhile that Germany and Italy had shaped new proposals for a formal peace to replace the armistice with France.

Hitler was said to be eager for such a peace by June 25, anniversary of the armistice at Compiegne, in order to cite it as progress under his "new order."

Stockholm said that 258 Jews were shot in Berlin on May 28, the day after the fatal attack on Reinhard Heydrich, Gestapo chief in the Bohemia-Moravia "protectorate." Execution of 15,000 Jews in Berlin, Prague and Vienna was reported threatened in event of "any plot against a single German."

Tass, official German news agency, suggested that Hitler considering a drastic purge of his officers corps to remove friction with the Gestapo.

Battle Swings Across Tobruk Approaches

CAIRO — (AP) — A fluid battle raged on the desert approaches to Tobruk today as the British sought to adjust their positions while from the rear they violently attacked the Axis columns of Field Marshall Erwin Rommel which were nudging a wedge toward the coast.

The British said the Germans were attacking near Acroma in an effort to reach the coast and "isolate the troops remaining in the Ain El Gazala salient," the coastal anchor of the former line of minefields 40 miles west of Tobruk.

Already the southern anchor at Bir Bacheim has been wiped out.

The British indicated a threat to another of their fortified boxes at El Adem, south of Tobruk, had been eased by clearing the enemy out of the area to the east of that point.

"Heavy fighting continues," the communique said, indicating that despite the counter thrusts of Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's forces, the Germans were still pressing strongly."

"The enemy are attacking our positions near Acroma in an attempt to isolate the trops remaining in the Ain El Gazala salient."

With Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's land forces still hammering at British lines defending Tobruk the German air force opened an assult on British supply lines extending nearly 200 miles back into Egypt, an RAF communique reported today.

Report U. S. Planes Cleared Turkey

ANKARA—(U.P.)—All but four of the American planes which bombed Axis objectives on the Black sea, cleared Turkish territory on their way to their secret Middle Eastern bases, it was said authoritatively today.

Three planes reported to have landed in southern Turkey actually managed to continue over the frontier to Allied-held Syria, informants said, flying so close to the ground because of failing fuel that it was at first believed they had been forced to land on Turkish soil.

Three of the planes which took part in the first United States air raid of the war on European soil had been put under Turkish guard at the airport here and a fourth landed at Arisiye, near Izmit, 50 miles east of Istanbul. It was reported that the 21 U. S. fliers interned in Turkey may soon be released on parole.

Most well informed quarters here believed that the great Ploesti oil fields of Rumania, 100 miles north of Bucharest, had been the target of the United States planes.

But there were continued reports also that the German-held ports of Odessa and Nikolaev, on the Black sea coast, might have been the targets.

Axis quarters here were most anxious after their first amazement at the news that United States planes were in action in this part of the world.

Axis agents were snooping all over Ankara and Istanbul trying to find, first of all, whence the planes came.

Political quarters reported that the American planes had done considerable material damage in their raid and also had started "nerve war with a vengeance."

U. S. Will Take Glider Students Without Flight Training.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—To insure an adequate number of glider pilots, the army air forces removed today a requirement that candidates must have had prior flight training.

own life. The son contacted his father's friends in Perrysville, Lucas and Mansfield, on the chance that he may have tired or fishing and left, but none of them had seen him.

Four or five fishermen's boats were used in the search last night. The searchers used a grappling hook made from a pole they borrowed from the Mansfield fire department. Because of the depth of the water, however, they were unable to reach the bottom of the lake, in some places, they said.

Watson, who lived on the Culler farm about one and a half miles southeast of Lucas, was fishing at the Richland county end of the reservoir approximately two miles above the dam, Whitcomb said.

The missing man was wearing hip boots which, it was pointed out, would have handicapped him in swimming if he fell into the lake. He was dressed in overalls and a sweater.

Watson has another son, Carl, who lives at 569 McPherson street, Mansfield. Both sons and neighbors of the missing man were dragging the lake today, and deputy sheriffs planned to join them this afternoon. Watson formerly was employed at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company plant.

Japs Admit Midway Losses 'Greatest'

LONDON—(UP)—Japan's losses in the Midway island battle and the Aleutian islands operations were the greatest suffered by the Japanese navy since the start of the war, the Tokyo radio admitted today.

"The losses suffered by the Japanese navy were not inconsiderable," the Tokyo radio said. The admission was made in a special Japanese broadcast to Germany, recorded here by the United Press listening post.

Chinese Say Japs Again Using Gas

CHUNGKING — (INS) —Japanese forces were accused again today of using gas, the first time since President Roosevelt threatened the United States would retaliate "in kind" if it were proved the Nipponese were resorting to that form of chemical warfare.

A Chinese communique charged that the enemy used tear gas in Kwangtung province, in an attempt to blast farther into China.

No other details of use of the gas were given in the communique, which dealt only briefly with the fighting in the southeastern Chinese province. The gas attack was said to have taken place along the Canton-Hankow railway.

Several times in the last few weeks when the Japanese were battling stubborn Chinese defenders in Chekiang province, accusations were made that the invaders had resorted to gas.

Meanwhile, Chinese forces threatened Japanese positions in Kiangsi province today, with attacks on two towns within easy striking distance of the vital Kiukiang-Nanchang railway. One unit besieged Anyi, 20 miles northwest of Nanchang, while another simultaneously attacked Joki, 62 miles northwest of Nanchang.

CAGNEY HEADS WAGE EARNERS

Edges Out Clark Gable With Second Largest Salary In Movies.

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)— James Cagney, movie actor, edged out Clark Gable as second largest wage earner in 1941, with $362,500, the Securities and Exchange commission revealed today in releasing additional reports of corporations.

Louis B. Mayer, managing director of Loew's, Inc., continued to hold first place for the fourth consecutive year with $704,426, nearly twice the salary Warner Brithers paid Cagney.

Late reports on companies whose securities are listed on the stock exchanges of the country brought some shuffling in the first 10 wage earners, with seven of them affiliated with the fabulous moving picture industry.

fights that sometimes assumed the proportions of pitched battles.

Trouble started when stevedores, loading coffee from "prewar stocks" into trucks for transport to the Russian front, threw some of it over an iron barrier into the street.

Passers-by fought for "the precious coffee beans," according to these reports. When strong secret Nazi police detachments arrived the crowd stoned them.

The food riot report came a few hours after the secret "European revolution transmitter" had broadcast from the German side of the Atlantic what it called five facts.

These facts, it said, "show that the German rear is too weak to support the front where Hitler must achieve victory within four months or fail."

The "facts" were:

The German food ministry plans to reduce rations further because the war, extended far beyond Nazi plans, had depleted stocks. There will be no potatoes for sale until August. Bread rations will be reduced this fall. In some districts 1.5 kilograms (3.3 pounds) of potatoes are being allotted per person every three weeks.

In the Ukraine vast stretches of land are uncultivated because of Russian passive resistance. In Germany the harvest outlook is bad. (This was known.) Everywhere there is a shortage of transport.

SUB TOLL RISES

Total of 265 Allied Ships Sent To Bottom Since War Started.

(By Associated Press)

With the Germans threatening a new widespread campaign against all shipping in the Atlantic north of the West Indies, the total of ships sunk by enemy submarines in the western Atlantic now stands at 265.

Additional sinkings of 13 merchant ships last week and one yesterday were announced officially. More than 394 crewmen and passengers of the 14 ships were reported rescued, while 18 lives were lost and 65 persons were missing.

Seven United States ships, two British, one Norwegian, one Brazilian, one Swedish and one unidentified Allied merchantman were included in last week's sinkings. The ship reported sunk yesterday was a small Dutch merchantman.

on the penny-a-pound provision. Clarification was expected shortly on the question of whether all scrap articles consisting partly of rubber should be paid for at the rate of a cent a pound, or whether this should apply only to the "reclaimable rubber" portions of the scrap items.

One of the first in the city to turn in his scrap rubber was 14-year-old Junior Etzwiler, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Etzwiler. He stayed up late to turn in his contribution at one minute past midnight to George Crutt, manager of the Gulf Service station on Park avenue east.

Mike Augustine, proprietor of the Augustine Canfield service station at 238 North Diamond, reported 164 pounds of scrap rubber were turned in at his station in the first two hours this morning. He borrowed his wife's bathroom scales, so that he could weigh the material.

Fred Kunert, proprietor of the Pure Oil Station at 78 Lexington, reported that the first three customers of his station bringing in scrap rubber provided a total of 156 pounds.

Herman Brunk, manager of the Standard Oil station at Park avenue west and Benton, said that he had received more than 300 pounds in the first few hours this morning—all of it in comparatively small "dabs."

Some station operators were just guessing at the weight, in the absence of any scales, and were hoping that Mansfield residents with scales would make them available for the two-week collection.

L. W. Hartman, president of the Mansfield Manufacturers' club, received a telegraphic request from the salvage section of the bureau of industrial conservation asking that he enlist the support of salvage managers of industrial plants in this area in the scrap rubber drive.

The state committee handling the collection emphasized that every bit of scrap is desired, but that folks should not turn in anything they would have to replace later.

field on June 29 to confer commissions on today's applicants who are accepted, Major Perry said. Within two weeks after that date, these accepted officers will receive their instructions as to where and when to report for duty.

Due to a misunderstanding in advance notice of the meeting, there had been a widespread impression that the board would receive applications from doctors only.

Applications will be received again from dentists as well as doctors when the board returns here on June 29 to confer commissions, Major Perry said. He pointed out, however, that this plan is based on the current situation, and that enlarged needs for physicians and dentists may change the present voluntary method for professional men to apply for commissions.

The board's session here today was for physicians and dentists in Ashland, Erie, Holmes, Huron, Lorain, Medina, Richland and Wayne counties.

Ohioans Honor Flag And United Nations

(By Associated Press)

In a week-end of parading and saluting, Ohioans paid honor to the flag of their country and to the nations with which America is allied in war.

It was a two-day celebration of Flag day and MacArthur day—and Ohio put on a good show.

The greatest was in Columbus, where some 15,000 persons marched in the biggest parade ever seen in the city. Officials estimated that upward of 100,000 saw the marchers.

Cleveland had its parade Saturday. Spectators applauded a group of Chinese carrying the flag of their land, and to the hammer and sickle of the Soviet republics. Cincinnati held its parade yesterday, with the massing of colors in front of the courthouse.

At Tiffin, Milo J. Warner of Toledo, former national commander of the American Legion, asserted in a speech that "while we must look ahead to the future and the winning of the peace, we must first win the war."

Union chieftains stressed national unity and exhorted workers to boost war production at a victory rally of some 1,000 members of the CIO, AFL and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at Youngstown.

At Hamilton a new 55-foot flagpole at the High street courthouse entrance was dedicated and a flag, 10 by 14 feet, was raised.

DEDICATES 'ZOO ROAD'

COLUMBUS—(INS)—State Route 257, to be known as the "Zoo Road" between Dublin and the O'Shaughnessy dam, site of the Columbus zoological gardens, was formally dedicated to Ohio's children when Governor Bricker snapped a red, white and blue ribbon across it.

WEEKLEY FILES SLANDER SUIT

Butler School Row Figure Names Physician, Farmer In $10,000 Actions.

While no public statement has been made regarding charges, it was learned that the board has filed charges against him which may be heard publicly if Weekley requests an open hearing.

A group of citizens of Butler and Worthington township which is a part of the Butler district drew up charges of "misconduct" against the superintendent in February when he was temporarily suspended. Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz ruled last month that the charges were illegal and that any action to remove Weekley would have to be taken by the school board.

The brief suspension last February brought a protest strike of the school's pupils and the superintendent was re-instated. The nature of the first "misconduct" charges was never revealed and no hearing was set.

Supt. Weekley has 30 days to reply to the board's recent action to remove him. So far, there has been no move to set a hearing. He is represented in his two slander suits by George W. Biddle, Mansfield attorney.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JUNE 15, 1942.

Now's the time to bounce around and gather up all of your scrap rubber.

Reinhard Heydrich, the slain gestapo chief, was eulogized by Hitler as "one of the best Nazis," and his record of atrocities seems to justify that stigma.

Honesty may be more generally restored as "the best policy" after the temporary departure some folks are making in connection with the sugar rationing program.

President Calls for Old Rubber

THIS WEEK it's the scrap rubber drive that gets under way, for the purpose of reclaiming as much as possible of the old rubber of all sorts that is scattered around the country.

President Roosevelt has asked that this be done in an effort to partially relieve the shortage of rubber needed for military and civilian uses.

Upon the success of this drive will depend future action in the matter of general rationing of gasoline, for it is shortage of rubber rather than gasoline that has made it necessary to find ways to restrict motorists to essential driving.

Locally it is the auto service agencies and filling stations that will serve as collection points and a standard rate of 1-cent a pound is to be paid for all old rubber, which is then to be passed along through petroleum companies to the newly formed government unit known as the Rubber Recovery Corporation, without profit.

Procedure, as recommended by President Roosevelt, is: "Turn in all the old rubber—anywhere, everywhere," and "Cut the use of your car—save its tires by driving slowly and driving less."

Trailer Camps Create Problems

TROUBLE with trailer camps was inevitable in the present circumstances. People with trailers got jobs in pleasant towns and wanted to stay. But if they all got jobs and stayed, what became of the accommodation for transients? And what about the schools? More teachers needed. What about water, and sewer services, which somebody has to pay for? If the trailer denizens become permanent residents, what about zoning laws?

The problems are many, and what's more troublesome, they are new. They have no precedent. The law which seems to solve one problem ends by creating half a dozen others. But it is evident that some sort of standardized legislation is called for, dealing not only with the sanitary aspects of mushroom neighborhoods, but with methods of taxing the trailer dwellers so that they contribute to the expenses of the community whose blessings they enjoy.

Don't Waste Doctor's Time

PATRIOTISM need not be limited to such things as driving slowly and saving one's toothpaste tubes," says Medical Economics. "A 'Spare the Doctor' campaign might be promoted on similar grounds. Few people appreciate how many physicians are being siphoned off into the armed forces and how great an added burden this imposes on the doctor who remains at home. Few realize, therefore, that continued good medical service depends on helping the doctor to conserve his time. . . The more time the doctor can save in traveling to see his patients, the more time he will have to treat them."

Thousands of doctors are being called into military service. Thousands more will be called as the army and navy grow. So a doctor who stays home will have to take care of a great many more patients than in the past. The doctor will do his best. But there are only so many hours in the day, and each hour wasted means that an hour less can be given to people who really need attention.

Don't ask the doctor to make house calls when you are perfectly able to go to his office. Don't expect him to sit around and talk about extraneous matters. Don't try to turn a professional visit into a social occasion. The American people are accustomed to receive the best medical service anywhere in the world, and they can continue to do so if they will keep in mind that the doctor is one of the busiest of men and that his time should not be wasted.

Spice Supply Dwindling

THE WAR PRODUCTION BOARD has cut in half the retail sale of seven spices: white pepper, allspice, cinnamon, cloves, ginger, nutmeg and mace. Without this cut, the supply would be exhausted in six to nine months. Now we should get along for 12 to 18 months. If the war lasts long enough, black pepper will be next. Just now there is two years' supply on hand.

Our ancestors would have found this more serious. In the Middle Ages spice was used in almost every dish. Strawberries would be about the last dish with which anyone would want spice. Yet a 15th century cookery book directs that strawberries be washed in red wine, put in a pot with almond milk and rice flour, boiled, and then dosed with raisins, saffron, pepper, much sugar, powdered ginger and cinnamon. Then the mess should be made acid with vinegar, and a little white grease added. By this time the dish should be free from any suggestion of strawberry flavor.

No wonder, with such use of spices, that Europe found it important to keep open the trade route to the Spice Islands of the Far East.

What, No Cake! Then Eat Bread

THERE'S some satisfaction in hearing that bread is not to be rationed. Domestic wheat supplies were the largest on record, and should take care of normal requirements for the next two years. This is the cheering word from the department of agriculture. The department is also encouraging the production of enriched vitamin-packed flour, which will enable people better to withstand the inevitable hardships of the war.

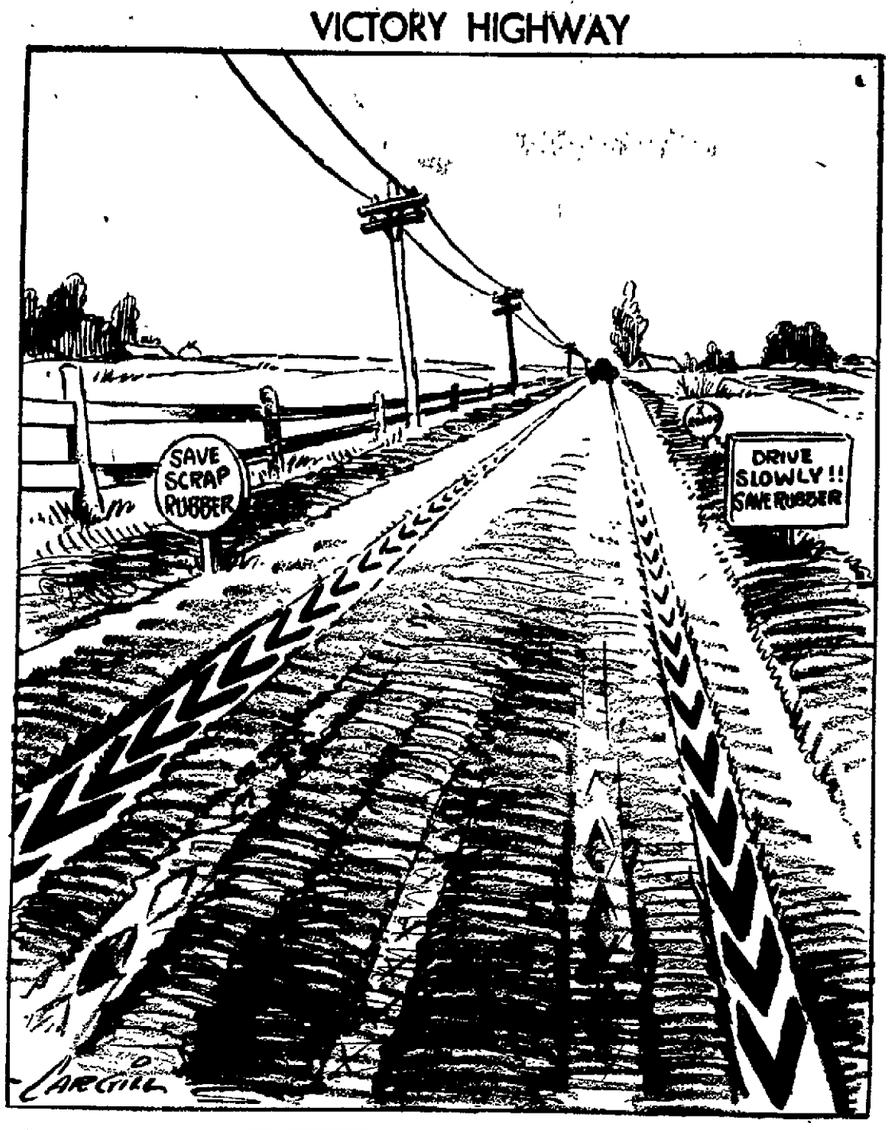
Almost every other country in the world would look with envy at one that actually has enough bread and to spare.

A scientific estimate is to the effect that in Antarctica there is sufficient ice to encase the whole globe in a coating 120 feet thick—which shows Hitler what can be done if deemed necessary.

Mussolini is still saying "War is swell," but he will probably revert to Sherman's rhyming word before it is over.

Just why soldiers need more safety razor blades when away from home than while at home has not been explained.

VICTORY HIGHWAY



World Harmony May Be Elusive

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

A PERMANENTLY peaceful, happy, post-war world!

That's what the United Nations are fighting for. Momentarily they're resisting murderation, to be sure. However, their ultimate objective, after attending to the would-be murderers, is to make this planet a safe, pleasant place for all concerned—for the peoples of the Axis nations as well as the United ones.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace made a speech on the subject the other day. Shortly beforehand, State Undersecretary Sumner Welles had made a similar one.

In a way Sumner's talk was more impressive than Henry's, because Henry always has been a dyed-in-the-wool altruist, whereas Sumner has gone in quite exclusively for practical diplomacy. What Henry says is what he HOPES for. Sumner tells what he's definitely FIGURING on.

There's much economic chat also.

It's of an international nature, like the other gabble, but it concentrates, more especially than that does, upon the situation we'll find our U. S. selves in, as we try to get back to a fresh spell of "normalcy" — Warren G. Harding's term.

Demobilizing.

The question arises:

Won't it disorganize us like fury when we come to demobilize, back into civil life, four to ten millions (depending on how long the scrap lasts) of doughboys, bluejackets, marines, cannoneers, aviators and assorted branches of our belligerent subdivisions (I trust I haven't omitted any of 'em)?

The answer is:

By no means.

It seems we shan't demobilize at any such rate. Why not? Why, because we'll have to maintain a tremendous force to police the then-vanquished Axis cannibals.

They'll still hate us. We'll still distrust 'em.

Does anybody suppose that Germany'll be otherwise than Teutonic, any more than it was in 1914 or subsequently, no matter how this war ends?

The anti-Axis folk agree that it won't, without any argument.

Heck, no!—concur prophets like Henry Wallace and Sumner Welles; it'll have to be policed indefinitely. That's what'll occupy some millions of democratic troops, on into a few generations at least — keeping those Germans squelched until their current meanness wears off from 'em—if it can do it, everlastingly.

It probably can wear off from the Italians. They can get civilized.

The miscellaneous Europeans, in spots, aren't numerous enough to assess.

The Russians are a problem. That's an issue of one generation or more.

We and the English? We're accidentally one and the same aggregation.

We'll get along.

We Can Get Along.

We'll get on with the United Nations. We'll get on with the New World folk. We'll get on with the Old World folk that the Nazis have stung. We'll get on with the imitationally totalitarian group like Italy and Spain.

They'll want to get along with us, anyway.

But WE won't want to do it.

Now, how's the world going to be so happy?

Germany's to be OCCUPIED. We're to boss it—absolutely!

And the theory is that it'll make for international harmony.

Vice President Wallace and Secretary Welles have got to do some more orating to convince me.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, June 15, 1922.

Secretary of War John W. Weeks, in Cleveland speech, expressed fear that U. S. Government was trending toward social democracy.

While spading in his garden at 408 South Main street, George T. Main turned up wedding ring which Mrs. Howard E. Hamblin had lost nine years before.

Miss Charlotte Moore and Alva Mapes were married by Rev. D. G. Blair in Mayflower church.

P. & A. Electric Supply company took over Service Electric company and moved from 38 West Fourth street to 102 North Main street.

Frederick Frye, of Mansfield, was chosen instructor in chemistry at Wooster college.

Little friends of Caroline Chamberlain, Bartley avenue, were guests at her birthday party.

Mrs. Virgil H. Traxler died at her home, 116 Dawson avenue.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Meeting at Philadelphia on June 15, 1775, the Second Continental Congress elected George Washington "General and Commander-in-Chief of the Armies of the United Colonies and all the forces now raised or to be raised by them." The vote was unanimous. Congress still hoped, however, for reconciliation with Great Britain and supported John Dickinson in a final petition to the king.

Concise Rules of Civilian Protection.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A TIMELY addition to war literature is the manual of instruction, "Handbook of Civilian Protection," prepared for laymen by the Civilian Defense Council of the College of the City of New York. It is a small, compact manual which contains a great deal of information which we hope that we will not need but which we should study "in case."

Chapter I discusses "Total War and the Civilian" and gives a good outline of the organization of civilian defense with training requirements for the following groups: messengers, drivers, auxiliary firemen, rescue squads, auxiliary police, air raid wardens, fire watchers, emergency food and housing, nurses' aides, demolition and clearance crews, road repair crews, decontamination squads and utility repair squads.

Chapter Titles.

Chapter II describes "Air Raid Conduct and Services"; chapter III, "Fire Fighting"; chapter IV, "Incendiary Bombs"; chapter V is on "Poison Gas"; chapter VI is on "First Aid"; chapter VII is on "Civilian Conservation and Salvage" and chapter VIII is on Nutrition is the Wartime Emergency." The book runs to only 184 pages but is very complete and well illustrated.

"We have attempted," writes the author, "to condense the large amount of available literature on civilian defense into a volume of clearly written matter designed to be understood by the man on the street. In addition to all the basic civilian protection problems covered, we have included material on a number of problems never before treated in a single volume. These include psychological conduct during air raids, the protection of records, rare books and art treasures, and complete and authoritative advice on salvage. The book is unique in that a group of highly trained specialists have succeeded in expressing highly technical information in words of one and two syllables."

Its Ten Commands.

As an example of the clear and succinct rules I quote here the ten commands for air raid conduct:

"1. If away from home, seek the nearest shelter. Get off the street.

"2. If you are driving, park your car. Shut off all lights.

"3. If you are at home, send all members of the family to the refuge room. Have as little window exposure as possible. Equip the home shelter with drinking water, toilet facilities, a flashlight, a portable radio, a strong table, food and reading material.

"4. It is not necessary to turn off the gas at the meter unless bombs are actually falling in your vicinity.

"5. Blackout your home completely. Not a single crack of light should be seen from the outside.

"6. Keep away from windows. Flying glass splinters are dangerous.

"7. If bombs fall near by, get under a heavy table or an overturned davenport.

"8. Do not rush out of your home when the all clear signal sounds.

"9. Keep the blackout. The raiders may return.

"10. Keep calm. Keep cool. Set an example for others."

Timely Editorial

Proof of Birth.

The Census Bureau reports that there are no official state records of the birth of 2,790,000 residents of Ohio. Officially, more than one-third of the Buckeye people would not be on earth but for statistics better kept in Washington.

Until a few years ago this was comparatively unimportant. Now New Deal laws and the war emergency make it necessary for every applicant for Social Security benefits, for war industry jobs and for coast guard permits for water front employment and boat operation, to obtain a birth certificate or equivalent proof of nativity.

Complete state records have been kept only since the model registration statute became effective in Ohio in 1909. Thousands of older citizens must look for help to the bureau of census. From its secret records that organization provides transcripts—as many as 20,000 a week—to enable applicants to prove citizenship.—Toledo Blade.

Japs Trying to Eliminate China As Land Base for U. S. Bombers

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Only those on the inside realize it, but most tragic neglect of the war probably has been our failure to send bombing planes and munitions to China.

If the situation continues, China will be to the U. S. A. what Singapore was to the British Empire. And we will have to do some very embarrassing explaining as to why we sent China desperately needed munitions "too little and too late."

Tragic fact is that although the average American has read in the papers about U. S. supplies being carried triumphantly into China by U. S. airplanes, actually a mere driblet of munitions has arrived in China in the last three months.

It is also a tragic fact that of the 100 big transport planes taken from U. S. commercial airlines to carry munitions to China, only about a dozen actually were sent to China. Many of them still are in the U. S. A.

Meanwhile, the Japs are taking advantage of U. S. indecision by staging a drive designed to put China out of the war, meanwhile holding up their attacks on India and Australia.

Worried Over Doolittle.

VERY significant is the fact that this attack on China began just after Gen. Doolittle bombed Japan. The Japs suspect he used Chinese bases, so suddenly they have stopped all their other war efforts to remove this danger.

How right the Japs are in launching this sudden new tactic is shown by the battle of Midway island. Here U. S. land-based planes made mincemeat of the Japanese fleet. But also U. S. warships could not pursue the Japs anywhere near the Japanese mandated islands, because we could not risk attack by Japanese land-based planes.

In other words, land-based planes are the key to this war, especially in the Pacific. For at present the Pacific war is deadlocked until we can get land bases near Japan to bomb her, or she can get land bases near us. For the old idea of the American navy steaming up to Yokohama and throwing shells into Japan proper is just as outmoded as the spear and armor of the Crusades—unless we have land-based planes to protect the fleet.

Bed Bugs vs. Planes.

THE importance of China as a site for U. S. land-based planes against Japan has long been recognized. Tragedy is that so little has been done about it. We are waking up just as the Japs are about to take all the land bases China has. We are waking up so slowly that some U. S. Air Corps strategists are not willing to send planes to China even today, feeling that they are more important elsewhere.

A short time ago Gen. "Hap" Arnold, chief of air corps, agreed to send a number of four-motored transport planes to China. They could have made a real dent in the transportation problem, would almost have made up for loss of the Burma road. But then someone close to Gen. Arnold persuaded him to change his mind. The planes have not yet been sent.

Meanwhile, a handful of twin-motored transports are slowly ferrying a trickle of munitions to China. And twin-motored planes can scarcely lift a load over the lofty Himalaya mountains, where there are forty peaks over 23,000 feet high.

Our military mission to China is headed by Gen. John Magruder, who went to Chungking to cooperate with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, but results have disappointed the Chinese. They have complained that some American officers seem most concerned about a dearth of bathtubs and a surplus of bed-bugs—which is something one has to take philosophically in China.

But greatest of all tragedies is that, time after time, Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong will go to officials in the White House and get a promise of a certain number of bombing planes.

"Now can we tell the generalissimo definitely that these planes will be sent?" Soong asks White House officials.

"Yes, definitely."

"Because if there is any doubt," Soong reminds, "it is much better not to promise."

"The planes will be sent," is the renewed promise. "You can cable the generalissimo."

But then the planes are not sent. Someone around Gen. Arnold in the air corps holds them up, despite White House orders. And little by little, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is beginning to wonder what an American promise amounts to.

Barbara Hutton's Baron.

BARBARA HUTTON, multiple-married 5-and-10 cent store heiress, has been under surveillance by federal agents because of transatlantic telephone calls she has been making to a German baron.

The former Princess Mdivani, apparently deeply in love with the German sportsman and not interested in his Nazi views, has made a practice of taking a private plane from Hollywood to Mexico where she placed transatlantic phone calls to the baron.

The baron has a cousin living in Switzerland whom he kept informed of his movements. And when he expected to be in a city where he could receive a phone call, the cousin would cable Barbara from neutral Switzerland, Barbara would then take her private plane to Mexico and prepare for the clandestine phone call.

Barbara apparently did not realize that every word she said to the baron was taken down by telephone censors.

Not long ago, however, Barbara either cooled off toward the baron or learned that he worked for the German government. For she sent him a cable instructing him not to communicate with her any more.

Note—Recently, Barbara has been in a Mexican Pacific coast resort with the Countess di Frazzo and a cousin of Foreign Minister Anthony Eden.

Public power champions in congress will go to bat for Representative Clyde Ellis of Arkansas, now running for the senate on a public power platform. Leader of the house public power bloc, the militant young New Dealer is bitterly opposed by utility interestss. . . . WASHINGTON—There must be hardly a war industrial or military center in the country that isn't asking where is that defense housing we have heard so much about?

Certainly the question is being asked here in Washington which, in spite of its staggering expansion, hasn't mushroomed like some of the villages which have become cities overnight. Defense housing has been one of the chief topics of discussion around here for well over a year, but you'll wear out good shoeleather trying to find any of it.

THE answer is simple enough. Defense housing is caught in the ol' debbil log jam called priorities. Appropriations and authorizations for defense housing started shortly after the same for guns and tanks and planes. But by then it was too late.

It is only a little more than nine months ago that the old OPM issued its first authorization for 300,000 defense housing units. And it has been SINCE that time that all the shortages in materials have become critical.

According to Sullivan W. Jones, chief of WPB housing priorities, there are between 80,000 and 110,000 housing units in the country now completed, near completion or under construction with no connections for utility services. That's because of shortages of copper wire and pipe for anything but military uses.

When the present inventories of bathtubs are gone, there won't be any more. Reinforcing steel is not available for housing. There are restrictions on fixtures, furnaces, metal windows and what-not. The lumber and wood products situation is becoming serious.

WHAT'S the answer?

Mr. Jones, in outlining the situation, the other day, put it this way:

"President Coolidge I think it was who said there were four rules which made New Englanders tough and New England great. They were: 'Eat it up. Wear it out. Make it do. Do without.'

"Those rules, all but the first, are revolutionizing our concept of housing for war workers. We must face realities and adjust our thinking.

"After all, this is total war and war workers are only soldiers on the home front. The housing which some of them, the single men, anyway, may have to live in for the duration may be little better than housing provided for soldiers on the fighting front."

A Farmer's Diary

Sheet Erosion

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR THREE consecutive afternoons dark clouds piled in the west and for three days we had heavy rain and wind storms each evening. Thunder and lightning; a mighty downpour of rain, seasoned with hail; then steaming soil, light fog blotting out the valleys, and sheets of water covering low fields.

My wife and I enjoyed a drive, far through the country before the rain was over. It seemed pleasant to splash through puddles on the highway, dry and warm in our car. All along the valley road, the Clearfork was a yellow, boiling stream, eddying to the very brim. Ditches ran bank-full and in places overflowed, wildly scattering gravel and sand across the pavement. Acres were covered with muddy, frothy water.

When we returned, the rain had stopped, and the sun was flooding the scudding banks of clouds with gorgeous color. High across the east the constant movement of the rainbow's end sifted slowly down its silver and gold upon the earth. Across one windswept field, three pheasant cocks were walking boldly, hunting sprouts of corn.

The reason for the muddy water roaring through the valleys was plain to see. In every cornfield little gullies threaded the surface soil. Many hills of corn were washed completely out and white open roots lay toward the sun. Each cultivated hillside had formed suddenly a clearly marked system of surface draining.

"What do you think of this rain?" I asked one farmer, on an upland farm.

"It'll make a bumper crop of oats and corn and hay," he answered quickly. "Outside of a little washing on that hill, it hasn't done no harm or has it?" (I suppose I looked disappointed.)

"If you keep on farming just like this for twelve more years," I ventured my opinion, "you'll likely be on relief. But you probably will change your methods."

"Is it that bad? 'Course I'll acknowledge that I used to help my father raise better crops than we get now—and grandpa, who cleared the land, more'n 70 years ago, made money farming. Clover used to grow easier then, and these hills didn't wash so much . . . but what's a fellow goin' to do about it?"

"There's only one answer that I know," I said. "Strip farming and grass and trees."

"I haven't tried any new fangled ideas out," he admitted. "But looks like it oughta be better to keep the land than let it all wash down that muddy creek. Come back some day after I've had time to think it over—will you?"

I assured him that I would.

HITLER SPURS ATTACK AGAINST CHURCH IN WAR

Outward Truce Conceals Nazi Continuous Drive on Lutherans and Catholics.

(Editor's Note: Louis P. Lochner, chief of the former Berlin bureau of the Associated Press and Wide World, points out the nature of Nazi attacks on the church, in this tenth of a daily series for The News-Journal since his return from internment in Germany.)

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Adolf Hitler is fighting the established Roman Catholic and Lutheran churches just as relentlessly as he ever did, although outwardly there appears to be a truce.

But the church leaders haven't been fooled.

"They know Alfred Rosenberg, Hitler's "ideological leader," has prepared a secret memorandum, of which a copy is in their possession, in which he demands, in substance, that after the victorious ending of the war nobody who still clings to membership in the Christian church shall be allowed to hold any government job whatsoever—not even that of messenger or charwoman.

One must remember, in dealing with the German church that the dyed-in-the-wool Nazi regards Christian religion as a Jewish product.

That small band of "German Christians" who tried to harmonize Nazism with Christianity by making Jesus out as the foe of Judaism and as an Aryan from Nazareth, now is virtually in the discard, so far as the Nazis are concerned.

During wartime, the attack on the churches is not open; it is indirect.

The rallies of the Hitler youth organization are arranged for the very hour when Christian believers flock to their churches. The little boy who nevertheless goes to church with his parent is a pariah, an outcast, a "sissy" to his classmates.

Wherever soldiers so insist, they are assigned an army chaplain. But unless such a demand comes, religious services are not held.

Clergymen are forbidden to visit the sick in state owned and operated hospitals and institutions.

Important festival days, if they fall within the week, have been called off "because of the war." The faithful fear the Nazis never will permit their reintroduction after the war.

Ministers and priests are forbidden to conduct religious instruction in the schools.

Catholic and Protestant kindergartens, where working mothers could leave their children during the day, now have been eliminated by the Nazis. It's Nazi kindergartens only for everybody.

The religious press virtually has ceased to exist. Religious editors were told there was such a shortage of paper that church papers must cease publication.

During the last year, the gestapo has seized an untold number of convents and other institutions belonging to religious orders. The Jesuits, Franciscans and Benedictines suffered especially.

Nuns, priests and lay brothers generally were forced to leave their homes overnight with only a few personal belongings.

The property seized was used either as SS headquarters, as homes for the mothers of illegitimate children or as office space for Nazi party ofifcials.

Now as always in history, however, the "blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church." The arrests of scores of Catholic priests, the dramatic relegation to a concentration camp of Lutheran Pastor Martin Niemoeller have not been able to kill off Christianity in Germany. On the contrary, now, during the war, the churches are fuller than ever.

We had occasion to observe this during our internment at Bad Nauheim. Both the Catholic and the Protestant church were so near to our habitat, the Grand Hotel Jeschke, that we could see the worshippers come and go.

In Berlin we had made the same observation.

The Christians of both faiths are just as determined to save their country from the proposed "national church" of which the Nazis are speaking, as Hitler and his cohorts are set upon wiping out the last vestiges of Christianity.

GALS WANT BETTER FIT

PHILADELPRIA — (U.P.)— The newly-formed "Six-Foot-club" has asked Philadelphia Women's Apparel dealers for clothes "to fit us." The club has only women members, but men, provided they are six feet, two inches tall, are invited to join.

SORORITY NAMES OFFICERS

ASHLAND — New officers of the Pi Alpha Gamma sorority are Mrs. Joseph Gorlich, president; Mrs. George Donges, vice president; Miss Marjorie Sprague, secretary, and Mrs. Harry Weidenheimer, treasurer.

We can do it, Mr. President!

LET'S GO, OHIO! TAKE YOUR SCRAP RUBBER TO ANY GAS STATION AT ONCE!

YOU'VE BEEN WANTING TO DO MORE. Now—every man, woman and child can "do his bit" to help save the day for America! Scrap rubber is badly needed to win the war. The situation is so serious our President has issued an urgent plea to every American to turn in every single rubber article possible. To make it easy for you to cooperate, President Roosevelt, as part of his national appeal, requested Ohio's oil industry and the 17,000 convenient gas stations and hundreds of rural tank trucks to receive the rubber and pay you 1c per pound. Or, you may donate your scrap rubber. The oil industry is gladly cooperating with the President and the hundreds of Ohio Salvage Committees.

All scrap rubber collected will be immediately added to our country's vital supply. Gasoline dealers will be reimbursed by the oil companies supplying them, and the rubber will be bought by the Rubber Recovery Corp., a new government unit. Any margin over the penny a pound will go to Army and Navy Relief, the U. S. O. and the Red Cross. Oil companies, with others, will contribute transportation and all costs of picking up and handling, as well as the time of thousands of employes.

Of course, time is short and many service stations at first will not be adequately equipped with scales for weighing the rubber. Many will have to guess at it. We hope you'll patriotically bear with us in our attempt to be fair to all. If you have scales suitable for weighing the rubber, it would be helpful if you could lend them to your nearby station. So, here's your chance! Starting Monday, June 15, the more scrap rubber you turn in, the faster we'll beat the Axis in this fight for freedom. Please don't wait any longer than tonight to comb the attic, the cellar, the storage closets, the garage, the barn, the vacant lot next door—every place for every bit of rubber.

New Fabrics For Family Play Suits

Left to right, boy wearing beige shirt, rust-colored cordurex trousers; "mother" in red shirt, light green cordurella slacks; sister modeling blue cordurella jumper over checked cotton blouse.

By SUSAN BARDEN
(International Illustrated News Writer)

This summer Mother will be packing lunch baskets instead of suit cases, because vacations are going to begin and end close to home. This will be a holiday spent within walking or bus distance with everybody discovering the possibilities of local parks, neighbors' back yards and the nearby countryside.

It's going to be a get-acquainted season, too, because the family group will be intact. Camps and distant grandmothers will be deprived of the lively companionship of Sonny and Sis this year, and those two are going to discover what fun it will be to knock around with Mother and Dad.

Along with this unity of family spirit has come a unity of family apparel, because the lady of the house has discovered a grand new fabric weave for their sports wear. These two materials, cordurex for masculine clothes, and cordurella for feminine, is a light-weight corduroy. It is smart looking and comfortable but at the same time practical, because it can stand up under constant activity and will survive in repeated laundering.

Red Shirt for Mother.

Mother is wearing a red shirt with an open neck and one outside pocket. The sleeves are long enough to feel cozy on chilly evenings but can be rolled up for active sports or to catch the sun. Her slacks are well tailored with a side fastening, and are in a refreshing light green.

Father (not pictured) is sporting a yellow shirt with two patch pockets, complete with flaps and short sleeves. His slacks are in a rich gray, and are well cut enough to be worn for lots of informal occasions when he dons a matching or contrasting jacket.

Sonny is skating rings around the other boys in the park and is very proud of his outdoor outfit. His shirt is made of beige with long sleeves and one patch pocket, and his slacks trousers are in a manly rust color with cuffs, because there are no priorities on corduroy materials. This will save Mother lots of trouble when he suddenly grows a few inches almost over night.

Last, but far from least, in her picnic costume is Sister. She is the best dressed girl in the hoop rolling contingent. She looks very chic in her blue cordurella jumper, which she wears over a little Peter Pan blouse of checked cotton with tiny pearl buttons down the front and clever little puff sleeves.

Officers Elected By Pilgrim Guild At Last Meeting

Election of officers was held when approximately 50 members of the Pilgrim Guild of the First Congregational church met last week at the home of Mrs. Burton Preston, 550 Woodland road. Miss Mary Proctor was chosen president. Others named to serve during the coming season are Mrs. Peter Young, vice president; Mrs. C. R. Deisler, secretary; and Mrs. R. D. Lindsay, treasurer. Executive committee is composed of Mrs. Paul Weir, Mrs. Scott Coffin and Mrs. H. B. Soulen.

At 6 o'clock, luncheon was served buffet style from a table on the sun porch. Small tables were arranged on the lawn. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Young, chairman, Mrs. Deisler, Mrs. R. D. Iden, Mrs. J. C. Morgan, Mrs. H. R. Mustin, Mrs. Soulen, Mrs. E. Stephan, Mrs. E. K. Troll, Mrs. L. D. Twitchell, Mrs. Fred Weaver, Mrs. C. P. Wilcox and Miss Delia B. Evans. War savings stamps were awarded as prizes in bridge games. Next meeting of the Guild will be held Sept. 14.

Mrs. Balyeat Is Dinner Hostess

Another in the series of parties honoring Miss Jane Stough, bride-elect of Nicholas J. Marion, was given Friday evening by Mrs. Beatrice Balyeat at her home, 565 West Fourth street.

Dinner was served for the six guests at a table with pink and white appointments. Pink carnations and blue larkspur formed the centerpiece. The favors were small pink and white baskets. Miss Stough was presented with a pair of pillows from the hostess.

The service will be performed by the Rev. Elwyn Owen in an open church ceremony at the Mayflower Congregational church, June 20 1:30 p. m. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Carl L. Stough, 601 Grant street. Mr. Nicholas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Marion, reside at 651 Bowman street.

Prizes Awarded At Possum Run Club

On "Ladies' Day" at Possum Run golf club last Wednesdayday, prizes for low net scores were awarded as follows: first flight—Mrs. John Seifert and Mrs. Al Kushin; second flight—Mrs. William Sayre; third flight—Mrs. Foster Bell.

This Wednesday the women are to meet at the club house at 8:45 a. m., where pairings will be made for two ball foursomes. Following the play, a covered dish dinner will be served.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, June 16.

A productive and prosperous day is forecast according to the predominant astral influences. While the progress may not be to any spectacular degree, yet an encouraging measure of support and approbation may be expected from large corporations, political or diplomatic bodies as well as from friends, superiors or officials whose cooperation is essential.

Those whose birthday it is may count upon a progressive and satisfactory year, with new and important projects having the hearty support of those in power as well as financial standing, although it would be advisable not to attempt to overtax the generosity of such well disposed cooperators. Tendencies to overdo or splurge should be regulated.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

AS I HEARD Lillian's words uttered in drab, hopeless monotones, I felt as if there were a vacuum between my lips and my toes — what Mrs. Ticer would describe as an "all gone feeling."

Until then I had hoped against hope that my father's kindly conspiracy with Dr. Twitchell, to keep Harry believing that he was far more seriously injured than he was, might succeed in keeping him quiet for a few days at least. But I could visualize the restless impatience with which Harry, realizing his returning strength, had badgered the physician into giving him permission to sit up a little while. A look at Lillian's tragic face told me that her forebodings were justified.

As soon as he could manage it, Harry meant to go back to the underworld which believed him dead, the world where still lived men who believed he had double-crossed them, and had stayed their vengeance only because they did not know he was still alive.

If those men should penetrate whatever disguise he meant to use, he and Lillian and I all knew his life would be worth the traditional farthing.

"I know it will not be of the slightest use," I said hesitantly, "but if you'd like me to talk with him about it after Father gets through with his interview, I'll be glad to do my best, provided that Miss Whitlock will let me talk to him."

"Oh, my dear, would you?" she asked, her face lighting with sudden animation. Then the light went out of her eyes as if a switch had been turned off.

"I agree with you that it probably won't do a bit of good," she said pathetically, "but I wish you'd try."

"Of course I will," I said. "Where will it be best for me to see him, and — do you want to be present?"

"Oh no, no," she said tremulously. "I've said everything I could think of, and while he is kindness and gentleness itself, he is positively adamant. If he turns you down too, I don't want to be around."

I was relieved at her decision. Although I had no real hope of changing Harry Underwood's mind, I knew I could paint Lillian's distress more eloquently and think of cogent arguments against his going more readily if she were not with us.

"The next thing is when and where to see him," I said. "Do you think I ought to try it tonight, or wait until tomorrow? Miss Whitlock may be in a more indulgent mood tomorrow, and Harry will hardly flout the surgeon's authority by starting out within the next two days."

"No," Lillian agreed, "he promised me he would not start until Dr. Twitchell has said that he can safely go out of doors."

"Then that gives me a little leeway," I said. The words had hardly left my lips when a knock on the door punctuated them. When I opened the door my father spoke imperatively:

"Will you both please come over to Harry's room immediately?" he asked. "We have something of importance to discuss."

NERVE AND VISION

It requires either nerve or vision, or both, to put forth the singleton king of an unbid suit as the opening lead. When you can be reasonably sure your partner has the honor above or below it, that may be the winning choice. Upon the rarest of occasions, the singleton king of the opponent's trump suit can be the killing lead, but it takes quite a player to rise to that opportunity. If it works out wrong, he risks a terrific tirade from his partner.

All by himself, in the scoring, stood the man who doubled that contract and then set it by most imaginative daring—Harold Conrad, of Scranton, Pa. Other tables in the same tournament at the Skytop club in Pennsylvania produced a spade game, as the club K was led. After the A won that, a club was ruffed, a heart ruffed, a second club ruffed, a second heart ruffed, a third club ruffed, a third heart led, East ruffing with the Spade A and returning the spade 4, after South discarded a diamond. Tricks for the spade K and one in diamonds completed the defensive allotment, the contract being made.

Conrad, however, realizing that weakness jump to game by North indicated great desire for ruffing something short, led his singleton spade K. East, with equal vision, overtook with his A and returned a spade to the Q. South scored his club A, ruffed one club, ruffed one heart, ruffed a second club with dummy's last trump, ruffed a second heart, leaving himself only one trump, gave up a club to West, ruffed the heart A with his last spade, but then had to give up two tricks in diamonds and one to East's spade 7, so that he was beaten two tricks.

CHAPTER VI

Kay's first morning in the Sweet shop was so brimful of excitement that when Bessie Munsell said, "It's almost twelve; the luncheon crowd will be coming in;" Kay could not believe Bessie or the hands on the clock.

"But we've just begun," she protested. "Only half of the candy trays have been done over—there's the cake case—we need fresh flowers for the tables."

"The flowers are not as fresh as they might be, but they'll have to do for today." Bessie looked a bit harried. Kay had asked her so many questions. Why couldn't people take life easy? Why did they act as though everything had to be done in a day? Kay Kenyon would find out about work soon enough. No need to rush the sorry knowledge.

"I'll help you with the tables," Kay said.

"No. The tables are set a certain way. You'll only scramble them. Mr. Lord said you are to keep your eyes open today, to get the feel of the shop and if there's something you don't understand, ask questions. He needn't have told you to ask. You're the perpetual question mark."

"I'm sorry," Kay was contrite. "I know I've been a bother. I'll try to remember everything you've told me and shown me so I won't have to ask again. Perhaps I can go on with the candy trays."

"Sure. You can do that and watch what goes on at the tables too. We don't have so many lunchers. Mostly women who are downtown shopping, or who want a fancy sandwich or the kind of cake they won't bother to bake at home. They see the display in the cases and they buy cakes and candy to take home with them. That's the idea of serving luncheon and tea in the shop, to boost the counter sales."

"I see. Then the more attractive we can make the displays the more sweets we sell."

"Right. You'd be surprised how greedy some folks' eyes make their stomachs. What will you do, go home for lunch or take pot-luck here?"

"What do you do?"

"I take pot luck."

"Then I'll take it too." Bessie's solution was a relief. Going home to the Kenyons in their present high state of dudgeon over what they chose to believe was Kay's utter disregard for decency, for family pride, was not a pleasant prospect. Better to continue with her work, Kay thought, while her enthusiasm for it was fresh. Aunt Cora's loud-pitched wrath, Elsa's sly thrusts, her mother's weak tears, were a combination to extinguish any enthusiasm, no matter how brightly it burned.

"We can have chicken sandwiches, sliced tomatoes and tea after the customers have cleared out," Bessie said. "I'll see the kitchen girls save choice white meat for us."

"Oh but—do you think we should?" Kay was doubtful. "Anything left over will do . . . I'm never hungry at noon."

"You'll get over that." Bessie was placing silver on the small tables. "Take the best you can get and look for more, is my motto. Don't forget we work for it."

"Yes," Kay said thoughtfully, "we do work. But we're paid for our work."

"Sure we're paid." Bessie handled tableware as though she hated it. "But never enough. If we're smart we make it up by grabbing what we can get. It happens I like white meat. I earn it. So let the pampered pets who come in and pay for their lunch out of their gold-lined purses or who smirk 'Charge it to my account,' eat the dark meat."

Kay thought, "No wonder the luncheon trade in the Sweet Shop is thin. With Bessie's sour face, a few wilted flowers and second-choice sandwiches it's a wonder anyone comes in to eat. Surely something can be done. . . . Yes Mr. Lord, can I help you?"

The proprietor of the Sweet Shop had come in from the rear of the shop, in a rage. Beads of perspiration stood out on his forehead. He might have been a man pursued by furies.

"No one can help," he breathed, taking refuge behind the counter. "It's that kitchen girl. That Susie. She's gone crazy. She's on a rampage. She chased the ice man with a butcher knife. She threatened to carve me into little pieces. She's out there now with a whole chicken in one hand and a butcher knife in the other. She's gnawing the chicken bones and brandishing the knife. Time for lunch and nothing ready. Don't know what to do . . . how to tell the customers we can't serve them today."

Kay said, calmly, "I'm sure it isn't as bad as that. What's wrong with Susie? Did she tell you why she's waving chickens and butcher knives, Mr. Lord?"

"She did not. I asked her. She lunged at me with the knife and yelled. Couldn't understand a word. Just yells."

"Let me talk with Susie," Kay said. Suddenly she felt strong, adequate. She was a worker now, and there was work to be done.

"No sirree." Lord shook his head. "That black cyclone is dangerous. She's cook crazy. All cooks go crazy after a while. It gets into their bones, into their brains. You've got to give 'em a rest until they simmer down."

"Susie's cut up before?" Kay asked.

"Several times," Lord said resignedly. "She gets worse."

"You always give her a 'rest' after one of her spells?"

"I have to. Help is scarce in Somerset—her kind of help."

Kay said, with a smile that was not quite as spontaneous as it seemed, "Let me see what I can do with Susie, Mr. Lord. I'm not afraid of her spell or of her knife. She's probably putting on a show for another rest."

"Now Miss Kenyon, if anything happens to you I'm responsible—"

"Nothing will happen to me." Kay wished she felt as certain as she sounded.

* * *

She pushed open the swinging door into the service pantry where the light lunch was prepared. Susie stood by the serving table. She was polishing off a chicken leg, chewing hunks of bread broken from a half eaten loaf and washing them down with a breaker of fresh orange juice. Orange peels were scattered about the floor.

"Who is you?" Susie gulped. "What yo' want heah?"

Kay walked to the serving table, pushed back debris, picked up a fresh loaf of bread and placed it in the cleared space on the table.

"I'm the new kitchen maid," she said. "I'm here to get lunch ready. Move over, will you please?"

She came around the table, close to the open-mouthed Susie. "I have to get a bread knife out of the drawer. It's late. The customers will be coming in any minute."

Susie fell back.

"De saints come marchin'," she gasped. "You ain't work in kitchin. You rich white folks. Live in big ol' house out by d' park. I wo'k for yo' mammy when you no highah den a hen's haid. You git out dis kitchen foah I whangs yo wid a chick'n laig."

Kay found the bread knife, began to wield it swiftly. She hoped she was being expert about it.

"I'm in charge of this kitchen," she said. "We're serving lunch. Give me the butter, will you, Susie? And the chicken. Oh, yes, the lettuce. Crisp lettuce. And tomatoes. French dressing. A bottle of ripe olives. Susie, don't stand there gasping at me. Get going. We've work to do!"

Susie wiped her greasy hands on her soiled apron.

"Yes'm," she said. "We use maynais on us chicken sandwiches."

"No." Kay went on slicing bread. "We use salt and pepper and plenty of butter. The French dressing is for the tomatoes. Susie, what are you waiting for?"

"I ain't waitin'." Susie began reaching. "I'se steppin'."

REPORT WAR DOUBLES NUMBER OF WOMEN IN BRITISH PRISONS

(By International News Service)

LONDON—"There are twice as many women in Britain's prisons today as ever before."

Miss Lillian Barker, only woman prison commissioner in this country, startled a number of people with that statement at a London luncheon recently.

She summed up the causes for such an increase in female crimes under two headings.

"It's among the young people where women have failed," she said. "It's the hardest job in the world to make young girls understand their responsibility towards their country, their towns and their homes."

War was the second factor. Social disorders and home complications, she said, had been greatly aggravated by the blitz and by war conditions in general.

"Our work has increased enormously since the war," she said. "I am becoming most alarmed now to find the prisons so full. And the women who are going there are not all poor girls.

"Young people today just don't seem to want to take responsibility for anything. They just want to live their lives and go their own way irrespective of the needs of their country.

"We women must have been very lax in our education of young people to have allowed them to grow up without ever learning to take responsibility. And the blame does not fall only on teachers in the school-rooms."

What could be expected, she asked, of children who had lived through the blitz and who had lost so great a part of their educasions by evacuations and more evacuations?

"What can be expected of children who have been forced to sleep night after night in public air-raid shelters that before the war were a disgrace?

"It is impossible to maintain 100 per cent activity for a negative purpose. People need the fillip of something more definite than the Atlantic Charter and some promise of improved conditions for the majority."

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

On my list of people to feel sorry for I am adding today the name of the Mayer of Stocking avenue whose Christian moniker is pronounced Joe or Guiseppi or Sep as you please.

Such a monotonous life Sep leads that people like you an' me must shudder to even think of it. A drive and a pitch and a putt, down the middle, on the green and in the can, and the only way he relieves this monotony is by omitting sometimes the pitch or the putt or both.

I followed him around for four holes yesterday as the Bissman Stroh's Beers played their annual match at Sunset club near Mt. Vernon, and that was enough for me. I couldn't tooken it, just watching.

Par, bird, par, bird. That's the way his card read at the end of four, and so mechanical was the operation it got tiresome even for the spectator. Think what it must have been for him!

Now I liked much better the way Bob Moorhead played the same four. Here and there and everywhere was Robert, and even par at the end of four, and not a par hole in the lot. Boogie, bird, boogie, bird was the way Bob's card had it, even to sinking a 40-foot putt from off the green for the second bird.

Now that is the way I shoot it, omitting the birds. Long on the boogies I am, and I can understand the joy of living when you are here and there and everywhere. Such a delightful change of scenery it is from that down the middle, on the green, in the can business.

* * *

One guy who can find life interesting in the middle of the fairway is Yano Scodova, even in the middle of the wrong fairway.

Shooting skins in a ninesome before yesterday's team match started, Yano poked a brand new ball down the middle of 5 fairway from No. 1 tee at Sunset. And then couldn't find his ball.

"How can a guy lose a ball out in this nice green grass?" quoth Yano as he walked up and down and around the midway for fully 15 minutes searching for his pellet.

Finally someone spotted a brown and white pup contentedly munching on a small white object. It was Yano's ball.

It would have been perfectly all right and within the rules of golf for Yano to whistle the dog along and right up to the cup for a drop-in hole in one on that par four hole.

* * *

But this never occurred to the irate Scodova. So he played the ball for a dogie bogie, first removing the ball from the pup's mouth. The canine choppers would have suffered if he had played the lie as he found it.

THEATERS

Marine Action.

The conversion of a cocky recruit into a fighting leatherneck is depicted in the Ohio attraction, "To the Shores of Tripoli," featuring John Payne, Randolph Scott and Maureen O'Hara. Payne plays the son of a retired army officer who doesn't think too much of the airs of his superior officer. Scott appears in the latter role and Miss O'Hara is cast as a navy nurse who finds Payne constantly in pursuit. The picture, filmed in Technicolor, was produced with the cooperation of the government.

Sabotage Plot.

Alfred Hitchcock's widely-discussed "Saboteur," showing at the Madison, deals with the inroads made by fifth columnists in this country. A young aircraft worker is a victim of their activities until he is able with the help of a girl, to prove his innocence. Robert Cummings and Priscilla Lane are teamed in the picture. Otto Kruger and Dorothy Peterson are others in the cast. "Henry and Dizzy," with Jimmy Lydon is the second picture.

Air Thriller.

Bush pilots from the Canadian north woods find formal training at an R. C. A. F. base pretty irksome in "Captains of the Clouds," the Ritz attraction featuring James Cagney, Dennis Morgan, Brenda Marshall and Alan Hale. Ineligible to become fighter pilots because of their age they are kept on the ground as instructors until Cagney dares to disobey the rules. The battle between an unarmed squadron and a Messerschmitt furnishes the big thrill in the picture. "No Hands On the Clock" is the second attraction.

Romantic Comedy.

Staid professors compiling an encyclopedia add some new words to their edition after meeting up with a night club dancer in "Ball of Fire," the Park attraction teaming Barbara Stanwyck and Gary Cooper. The dancer takes refuge in their old brownstone home when the law starts chasing her gangster sweetheart. Dana Andrews plays the sweetheart. "Broadway Big Shot," with Ralph Byrd is the co-attraction.

Ruffing Ties Old Record

Wins 251st Victory in 19-Year Career.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

BESIDE the name of Joe (Iron Man) McGinnity on the list of Gotham's greatest pitchers they wrote another one today—Charles Herbert Ruffing of the World champion New York Yankees.

Charley the Red, winner of more games than any hurler active in the Major leagues, chalked up the 251st victory on his 19-year record yesterday to tie the mark left by McGinnity, who often pitched, and sometimes won, doubleheaders for the New York Giants in the early years of John McGraw.

In ten games this year, Ruffing has pitched 83 innings and has gone the distance seven times. He has yielded 69 hits while striking out 39 batters and issuing only 16 bases on balls.

Yesterday he tossed a five-hitter at the St. Louis Browns, the team that had beaten him twice before in his only reversals for 1942. He pitched the Yankees to a 6-1 victory in the first game and Ernie Bonham finished with a 5-4 decision in the second.

Joe Gordon singled in the opener to stretch his string to 29 consecutive games, but went hitless in the nightcap.

The second-place Boston Red Sox took a pair of close ones from Detroit, 3-2 in the regulation distance and 2-1 in 11 innings.

The Chicago White Sox vacated the American league cellar and turned it over to Washington by crushing the Senators, 9-3 and 11-4. Ted Lyons pitched his fourth victory of the season in the opener, the 249th of his career.

The Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics divided a double bill, with Luman Harris pitching a three-hitter to give the A's a 5-1 decision in the nightcap after the Tribe had won the first game, 8-3.

Whitlow Wyatt pitched Brooklyn's National League leaders to a 4-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds with a three-hit performance in the first game, but Ray Starr turned in a four-hitter that gave the Reds the second, 2-1.

* * *

The defeat cost the Dodgers a full game on their lead since the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Philadelphia Phils twice, 9-1 and 6-5.

The New York Giants snapped Pittsburgh's seven-game winning streak, 4-3, but the Pirates bounced back to win the nightcap, 8-3.

Another streak ended for the Boston Braves, who downed the Chicago Cubs, 10-1, for their first victory in 13 games after the Cubs had won the first half of the double bill, 8-6.

Redlegs Gain But Fall Back

Climb to Third Place, Drop Game to Leaders.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— That all-important long home stand of the Cincinnati Reds is ended, and after 16 games here the Redlegs are a game farther from first place.

The Reds divided a doubleheader with Brooklyn yesterday, losing the opener 4-1 and taking the nightcap 2-1, While the second biggest crowd of the season, 26,772 fans, watched.

Winning 10 of 16 games here raised the Redlegs from a tie for fourth to third, but it still left them 10½ games out of first place.

Yesterday's twin bill—all that the weather allowed of what was to have been a four-game series with the Dodgers—was a pitching show. Bald Whitlow Wyatt held the spotlight in the opener of hurling three-hit ball at Bucky Walters and the Reds; while old Ray Starr spooned the Dodgers similar medicine in the nightcap, allowing only four safeties. Wyatt's hurling job ended Walter's string of six victories in a row.

The Reds, en route to Boston, stop at Albany today for a twilight game with that Eastern League club.

SHOOTS FOR THIRD JUNIOR GOLF TITLE

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Ben Downing of Louisiana State university began shooting for a third consecutive Western Junior golf championship today at the Elmhurst Country club.

The Western Junior drew a field of approximately 160 competitors. The low 32 scorers in today's qualifier open match play tomorrow.

Pennant Race Slows To Walk

Flags All But Won By Yankee Sluggers.

By JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The date on the calendar reads June 15, but to seven major league baseball clubs it might as well read Oct. 1. For what we refer to as the American league pennant race — pause here for laughs — already has been decided. Barring a sudden epidemic of black plague or a revival of black magic, the New York Yankees can't lose.

The remainder of the schedule will be played out, of course, but for purposes which are purely commercial. The competition, if ever there was any, has vanished. The Yanks are so far in front that their Boswells have nothing to do except to chalk up the new records and attempt to find different ways of saying exactly the same thing each day.

It is traditional that pennants aren't conceded while any team has the remotest mathematical chance. Yet, there isn't an expert at large who believes the boys I have nicknamed the Bronx Bombers can miss. For instance, the man they call the wizard of odds, Jack Doyle, now quotes them at 1-7, out and out. As for the others, name your price and he's on.

If it is possible that you haven't noticed, the Yanks are surpassing the only feats left for 'em to top. Meaning their own, of course. The 1942 New York club may or may not be the superior of that which Joe McCarthy built in 1932 or that which the late Miller Huggins fashioned in 1927, but it could be.

Certainly it appears superior to the 1941 squad. Last year, you may remember, the Yankees won the pennant at the earliest date in modern history—Sept 4 Yet, on June 15 of last year they were trailing Cleveland—and whatever did become of Cleveland?—by two games. Their record was 32 games won and 22 lost for a percentage of 593.

This year, on the same date, they are nine and a half games on top, and still streaking away. They have won 41 games while losing just 13 and their percentage is a fabulous .759. To keep matters brief, these figures mean that today they are nine full games ahead of their record-shattering pace in 1941. The blokes are sensational.

What must curdle the few drops of human kindness still circulating in the blood streams of their rivals is that the bombers are wreaking such devastation while their ace slugger, Joe DiMaggio, is in one of the worst slumps of his career; while Charley Keller is hitting in the low .200's; and while El Goofo Gomez still is seeking his third victory.

Apparently, the Yankees themselves aren't going to break up the Yankees, so in answer to thousands of letters which I didn't receive I'll offer my personal suggestion as to how the league should be brought together. That is, let baseball take a tip from track and field or the horse parks and begin staging the pennant races on the time proven handicap basis.

Indians Split Even On Trip

Divide Double Bill In Philadelphia.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians returned home from the East today with a record of seven victories and seven defeats for their 13-day tour which included three night contests and two double headers.

They ended their odyssey in in Philadelphia yesterday where they split a twin bill with the Athletics, Al Smith grabbing the opener, 8 to 3, and rookie Red Embree losing the night cap, 5 to 1.

Balancing their situation as they rested today, the Tribe found themselves in third place, exactly where they were when the tour began June 2.

Two regulars were out of the games yesterday with sore muscles. Utility Infielder Oscar Grimes took Kenny Keltner's post at third base, and Ruster Mills worked Jeff Heath's garden, left field. Grimes got two hits including a double, out of seven chances, and Mills hit three out of eight.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—After seeing the latest reports on the Hale America tournament, this corner has come around to the idea that the brassie brasshats knew what they were doing when they cancelled this year's regular championships. . . . By junking the traditional tournaments and all their rules, they have been able to whoop it up for one big event that will bring in some real dough for the USO and Navy Relief. . . . It also provided an opening to issue invitations to several players who missed out in qualifying but who always are popular with the fans.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Jimmie Murphy, Canton (Ill.) Daily Ledger: "Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs should be able to sign up for a full winter season of vaudeville, having shown big time ability as a juggler in handling the Cubs' lineups so far this season."

MONDAY MATINEE

Dolph Camilli, father of five children, has been chosen as "the outstanding father in sports for 1942." . . . What's the matter with that Can-Am league umpire who has 23? . . . Milton Berle, the comedian, has bought the four-horse stable of Tom Stevens, who was stranded in California when the Santa Anita meeting was cancelled. . . . Earl Stewart, jr., of Louisiana State, will defend his national intercollegiate golf title at Notre Dame next week, started playing the game when he was four years old but claims he didn't begin to get good until he was nine Ray Brownell of Stanford, last year's runnerup, didn't start until he was eight. . . . No wonder he couldn't win.

Saints Climb Out Of Cellar

Sweep Twin Bill From Columbus Red Birds.

(By Associated Press)

St. Paul is out of the American association cellar today — hoisted out literally on a shoestring.

It was the only club to sweep a doubleheader Sunday, beating Columbus 3-2 and 7-6. The twin killing put the Saints just four percentage points out of the cellar and pushed Toledo, which divided with Minenapolis, into last place.

* * *

The Millers downed Toledo, 7-2, but lost the nightcap, 4-1. Charley Wensloff registered his eighth win of the season for Kansas City as the Blues cracked Louisville, 5-2, in the first half of a twin bill but the Colonels copped the second encounter, 2-1.

Another masterful twirling chore was hung up by Pete Naktenis, who won his sixth victory by hurling Milwaukee to a 3-2 win over Indianapolis. The Brewers lost the first game by the same score.

Stroh's Swamp Mt. Vernon

Limit Sunset Swingers To 4½ Points.

Bissman's Stroh's Beers swamped Mt. Vernon golfers in their annual match at Johnny Hergatt's Sunset club yesterday by the wide margin of 43½ to 4½.

The No. 1 and 2 Mt. Vernon swingers, Dale Strohers and Bob Nixon, picked up a point and a half, and not another part of a point did the Sunset clubbers have until their number 12 man came in for three. And he was a caddy pressed into service when a team member failed to show.

Al Kushin took medal honors with a one-over-par 73, while Al Hager and Joe Mayer tied for the runner-up spot with 75's.

Next Sunday the Stroh's go to Riceland country club near Wooster.

Mangrum And Little Win

Take Top Money In Inverness Tourney.

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO —(AP)— Sixteen top-flight golf professionads headed for Chicago and the week-end's Hale America event today after splitting a $7,650 purse in the eighth annual Inverness four-ball matches in which Lawson Little and Lloyd Mangrum grabbed first prize of $2,358.33.

* * *

Mangrum and Little distanced the field with a plus 14 score in the 126 holes of best-ball match play, winding up far ahead of the plus 8 with which Henry Picard and Sam Byrd copped second place and $1,-383.33.

* * *

Byrd and Picard skyrocketed into the runner-up spot with a nine-up victory over Jimmy Hines and Herman Barrow in the final round—the most one-sided match in the tournament's history.

Here's how the other teams finished, with their winnings, in the round-robin chase:

Herman Keiser and Chandler Harper, plus 6; $950; Byron Nelson and Jimmy Thomson, plus 5, $908.33; Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan, plus 5, $700; E. J. Harrison and Denny Shute, minus 5, $550; Horton Smith and Chick Harbert, minus 14, $450; Jimmy Hines and Herman Barron, minus 19, $350.

The Thomson-Nelson and Little-Mangrum combinations divided $250 for scoring the most birdies on the 126 holes—42 each—while the same combinations, along with Byrd-Picard, split another $250 for having the best-ball rounds of 62—nine under par.

Hogan and Demaret, the defending kings, finished in a fourth-place tie, but Hogan kept the lead among the year's money winners with $10,298.

Service Stars Look Tough

Major Leaguers Have No Cinch in Contest.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK —(INS)— What do you wanna bet that the team which wins at all-star baseball game here on July 6 will beat the all-Service team looks good enough night? Don't be too fast on the draw with your wallet. That All-Service team tooks good enough to win the pennant in either Major league, if they didn't have slightly more important duties to perform at this time and could be brought together for a full season.

* * *

The New York game will be the 10th annual tussle between the hand-plucked stars from the American and National leagues, and the winning side will hop right out to Cleveland to tackle Lieut. Mickey Cochrane's Service Stars in the first such encounter. This one will be most interesting of the two games.

For one thing the Service team will have a young gent named Rapid Robert Feller to do some of its hurling. In three games with the American leaguers against the Nationals, Feller hurled 8 2-3 innings and allowed a grand total of one run, three hits and three bases on balls while striking out nine of the Nationals. He has been one of the hurling ace of aces during his tenure on the All-Star mound and right off the bat gives the Service Stars something to start with.

For assistants, the former papoose of the Cleveland Indians will have such gents as Mickey Harris, ex-Boston Red Sox; John Rigney, ex-Chicago White Sox; John Grodzicki, ex-St. Louis Cardinals, to mention the top guys. It looks as though Hugh Mulcahy, ex-Philadelphia Phils, will miss the game because of army duties.

The winning team from the National or American league can't spot the Service Stars Feller and come up with a pitching staff that will have much, if any, edge.

Feller may go six or seven innings, instead of the three customary in clashes of this kind and the longer he is in there the better the Service team will be, all of whose players will be in top shape physically and spurred on by an incentive that the Major leaguers may not be able to work up. To the latter this will be just another ball game, the second of its kind in two days. To those gents pulled out of tanks and planes and the blue of the navy this is their day to get in there and do some business again back at the old stand and they won't coast. They'll be punching.

Feller won't be the whole team, either, but is mentioned as of paramount importance because too often exhibitions involving Major leaguers the latter can't miss because the hurling is so bad.

* * *

To back up Feller the Service Men will have the likes of Hank Greenberg, Buddy Lewis, Cecil Travis, Don Padgett, Sam Chapman, Benny McCoy, Johnny Sturm, Pat Mullin and a flock of others, besides Frank Pytlak and Ken Sylvestri to do most of the catching.

Feller Wins One For Navy

Beats Mulcahy and Army Team at Polo Grounds.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Like an order of restaurant hash, the customers at the Polo Grounds got a bit of everything yesterday.

There was a baseball game in which Bob Feller and his Navy teammates defeated Hugh Mulcahy and his Army supporting cast, 4 to 0; an abbreviated track meet in which Cornelius Warmerdam pole vauted 14 feet 8 inches and Greg Rice raced two miles on well-dampened grass in 9:15.2.

* * *

In addition, they got a taste of fisticuffs with Heavyweight Joe Louis going four rounds with spar-mate George Nicholson; a tennis match in which Don Budge and Alice Marble lost to Karel Kozeluh and John Nogrady, 6-4; a lacrosse game in which the Maryland collegians defeated the New England all-stars, 5 to 1, and a girls' softball game in which the first batter attempted a strip-tease.

A trio of corporals represented golfdom with Ed (Porky) Oliver winning the prize by slamming a ball within three feet 9 inches of a target 125 miles away.

Only 12,646 dampened spectators sat out the six-hour show. More than 45,000 tickets were sold for the event.

* * *

Feller was touched for three hits and fanned seven during the five inning baseball game, with the Bluejackets getting three of their runs in the first frame on a home run by Jim Carlin, former Philadelphia Phil infielder, that found two mates on base.

R. R. AUXTER
35 N. Foster 2343-1

YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE!

On November 23rd we delivered a 1942 Pontiac DeLuxe Torpedo six-passenger 2-door town sedan to Mr. Lloyd Weiland, who has only driven it 1900 miles. It is finished in Skipper blue body with beautiful broadcloth upholstering. We equipped it with our radio, heater, defrosters, and air conditioning unit, and numerous other accessories. This car delivered for $1269. NOW—this gentleman is leaving for duty with the armed forces of our nation. We have special permission from the rationing board to deliver this car to anyone desiring to own it. It will carry a new car warantee as if it had never been driven, and the owner will be entitled to the regular 2000 mile service. This car is on display in our showroom. P. S. It also has a spare tire.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES ON UPWARD SWING

War Production Board Has Metal Distribution Under Control.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Selective advances again dotted the stock market ticker tape in today's transactions although many leaders lacked support.

Gainers of fractions included Chrysler, American Smelting and Kennecott. Off a shade were Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Sears Roebuck and Air Reduction.

Shares analysts noted the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that more efficient distribution of steel and iron products was being achieved under war production board regulations. The publication also was optimistic over the current supply of scrap and reported that in some instances reserves were being established.

LEND-LEASE AID TOPS 4 BILLION

Roosevelt Tells Congress Battle of Production Being Won.

of lend-lease operations—with the emphasis finally shifted from foodstuffs and industrial materials to a preponderance of fighting weapons and military items.

The lend-lease program, instituted March 11, 1941, and since extended to the British commonwealth of nations and 35 other countries, has mounted to $3,673,000,000 in goods and $824,000,000 in such services as repairing ships, ferrying aircraft and providing production facilities in this country.

The goods included $2,601,000,000 for articles transferred, that is, delivered to lend-lease nations at production or export points in this country. Of this amount, $2,138,000,000 has been exported.

The balance of the $3,673,000,000 is accounted for by articles awaiting transfer or use and those in process of manufacture.

Congress requires a report on lend-lease activities from the president every three months, and today's was the fifth. It outlined how the United Nations particularly Britain and the United States, were pooling their resources and raw materials and shipping and told of the mammoth strides in building up production of the things with which modern wars are fought.

The lend-lease assistance is not moving entirely in one direction, the report showed. To the full extent of their ability, the president said, our Allies are supplying us with things we need.

He mentioned food and housing and equipment for American troops in Britain and Australia, special machine tools and equipment for munitions plants, British anti-aircraft guns at vital bases, and British-developed plane detective devices.

When it comes to finally settling accounts at the end of the war, the report indicated that this country did not intend to demand repayment dollar for dollar, tank for tank, and plane for plane.

"The real costs of the war," it said, "cannot be measured, nor compared, nor paid for in money. They must be and are being met in blood and toil. But the financial costs of the war can and should be met in a way which will serve the needs of lasting peace and mutual economic well being . . ."

3 BOYS HELD

Mansfield and Bellville Youths Accused in Bike Thefts.

Two Mansfield brothers and a Bellville youth were arrested by police yesterday in connection with the theft of bicycles from Mansfield boys during the past three days.

Police said that the brothers, 17 and 14-year-old, and the Bellville youth, 16, had bicycles reported as stolen, in their possession when taken into custody. The youths were turned over to Ralph Carroll, Richland county probation officer, for investigation.

They were arrested when John Teschler, 94 Wood street, complained to police that one of the bikes held by them belonged to him. Police returned the bicycle to Teschler and learned that another of the bikes belonged to Richard Hecht, 165 South Main street, who reported it missing late Saturday.

Police said one of the youths claimed the other bicycle was purchased fram another boy for $3. The trio was arrested on North Main street near the Ritz theater.

CLAMPS DOWN

WPB Starts System of Direct Allocation for Industry.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— American industry entered a new twilight period of government controls today as the war production board pressed its change-over from simple priorities to a program of direct allocation.

Principal instrument being used under the program is the production requirements plan, through which priorities are assigned for limited amounts of material during each calendar quarter. Allocation will be based more and more on the end use of manufacturers' products, rather than previously assigned ratings.

An interim procedure will be in effect during the third quarter of this year while WPB straightens the kinks out of the plan, and existing preference ratings will be continued for small producers, transportation companies, mines, smelters and refiners of basic metals, and others. Much tighter controls will become operative in the fourth quarter.

War Opens Idle Cobalt, Nickle Mine In Missouri

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo.—(U P)—Another of Missouri's long-idle mines — the old "Buckeye" mine which produced lead, nickel and cobalt—soon will be back in full production.

During World war I, the mine was an important producer of cobalt, used in alloys for tool steel.

By 1920, however, operating costs had risen so high that the mine could not compete with production in foreign countries imported into the U. S.

The mine was forced to shut down and the shafts gradually filled up with water. The present war has curtailed the foreign supply and domestic mines are being reopened.
